MISSING RECORD FOUND AFTER POLL CLERKS ARE FREED

Election Judges' Instructions Turned Up Wednesday, Clerk R. D. Hatton Writes Prosecutor.

PREVIOUS SEARCH VAIN, HE TESTIFIED

Notices Discovered After Lemmon and Hancock Are Acquitted, and 20 Other Cases Dropped.

Just after the acquittal of Arthur Lemmon and the abandonment of the 20 remaining prosecutions for the registration frauds of June, 1936, the Election Board yesterday announced that it had found an important missing item of evidence in Lemmon's case.

The missing evidence was the written form of instructions given by the judges of the Second Ward, second precinct, to the two clerks, of whom Lemmon was one, for their canvass of the supplementary registration. Lack of this document was a factor in the failure of the State's case against Lemmon, acquitted Tuesday, and the same matter entered into the recent failure of the like case against Harold Hancock, Fifth Ward, first precinct, clerk. Hancock and Lemmon, charged with willful neglect to canvass their respective precincts, were both acquitted without presenting defense testimony, in Judge James W. Griffin's Court of Criminal Correction.

Remaining Cases Dismitted.

Following the second acquittal, as has been told, Prosecuting Attorney James P. Finnegan dismissed the remaining 20 cases against precinct clerks, thus wiping the slate clean in the investigation and prosecution of frauds by which more than 40,000 ghost voters were placed on the rolls for the August, 1936, primary.

In the trial of Lemmon, Richard D. Hatton, chief clerk of the Election Board, testified that he had looked for the written notice given to Lemmon and his fellow-clerk, and had been unable to find it, though it had been shown to the grand jury which indicted Lemmon last year. Yesterday, Hatton wrote to Prosecutor Finnegan, saying the document had been found Wednesday.

In connection with the June, 1936, canvass, the Election Board official wrote to Finnegan, "It would appear that only 328 of a total of 669 such notices were on file in this office July 30, 1936. On that date, Al Roffman, then chief clerk, gave a list to the Circuit Attorney which showed 343 to be missing. All the notices to the clerks later indicated were then missing, except for Ward Two, precinct 2 (Lemmon's), and Ward Twenty-three, precinct 14.

"These two were evidently on hand in August, 1936, for they were then shown to the grand jury; but in our first looking for them, they were missing. On further search Oct. 7, 1937, they were still missing.

"There is nothing to indicate that at the time when the present board took office (Feb. 11) the two missing notices were on hand.

"Yesterday, during a renewed search among papers having nothing to do with the June canvass, we found the notice pertaining to Ward Two, precinct 2. We are still unable to find the notice of Ward Twenty-three, precinct 14." Hatton said that Finnegan informed him if a further search was desired.

There have been two changes of the entire Election Board membership since June, 1936—the removal of the Waechter board and the appointment of the Williams board, Sept. 18, 1936, and the appointment of the present board to succeed the Williams board last February. In the course of these changes, most of the personnel of the board of office has been changed. Former Chief Clerk Rottman is now employed in the City Assessor's office.

FOR KANSAS CITY

erson, former Deputy Superintendent, had been removed by O'Malley a year ago, because he was not "personally satisfactory" to O'Malley.

O'Malley's ouster grew out of his insistence on seeking approval by the Missouri Supreme Court of his compromise of the fire insurance rate litigation, which had the blessing of the Boss before the agreement was entered into in May, 1935.

Long Awaited Action.

Selection of the new Kansas City Election Board by Gov. Stark had been awaited with much interest by political observers since the terms of the present board members expired Jan. 15, not only because of the election fraud disclosures, but also a gauge of the extent to which the Pendergast organization would retain its hold on the State government.

The Governor today said he did not consult Pendergast "in any way" about the appointees. He said Pendergast had not submitted any recommendations since re-

MORE AS PLOTS

They Are Convicted of Conspiring to Overthrow Government by Force.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Oct. 22.—Three officials from the Margelan region of Uzbekistan were sentenced to death today as members of a nationalist band headed by Akmal Ikkramov, deposed member of the Central Executive Committee. This band has been accused of plotting to overthrow the Soviet Government with the armed aid of foreign Powers.

The three officials were convicted of "high-handed destruction of cotton, shrubs and houses on collective farms and the prevention of development of silk growing."

A Tashkent newspaper said one of the three confessed membership in a nationalist movement headed by Ikkramov.

Execution of three grain spoilers was reported today at Khabarovsk in Siberia.

Two alleged spies were held to day for trial by a military court at Leningrad after an investigation which authorities said linked them with a "foreign diplomatic mission."

Paul Zilberhorn Erwin, who formerly worked in Russia, and Irving Klein were accused of entering Russia as Max Schild and Joseph Lessieu with fake Swiss passports.

ate was a confidential one intended for the sole eyes of Johnson and of President L. W. Baldwin of the Missouri Pacific. "It was not a public report," he declared.

Kaplan instantly placed in evidence the reports for the year 1931 of the Public Service Commissions of Missouri, Arkansas, Texas and Louisiana. Each of them faithfully reproduced the figures as to the transportation company's cash balance which had been submitted by Wyer to Johnson.

Knew Balance Was False.

The witness desperately countered that there was no intent to deceive; that Johnson knew as well as he himself that the transportation company had no cash balance even distantly approximating $3,500,000. Kaplan turned on Johnson, who was seated nearby, and asked whether this testimony was true. Johnson falteringly replied, "I knew the Missouri Pacific Transportation Co. had no such balance."

Kaplan returned to the June 30 entry, and demanded once more whether it was not a "false report." Wyer squirmed and evaded the question for some minutes longer, but finally breathed the answer: "It is."

Witness Makes Admissions.

The boyish attorney took up the second entry, for July 31, 1931, purporting to show that the transportation company had on that date a cash balance of $3,548,471.48.

"Is that a false report?" he rapped out. "It is," muttered Wyer.

Then, relentlessly, Kaplan led him through the seven remaining entries, giving dates and figures, and in each case demanding: "Is this a false report?" To each, Wyer and evaded the question for some minutes longer, but finally breathed the answer: "It is."

When the ordeal came to an end, the strain in the committee room was so intense that Senator Truman of Missouri, who was presiding, ordered a recess of five minutes.

Explanation by Wyer.

When order was again called, Wyer rose and passionately exclaimed:

"You've been pretty rough on me, and I think I should be allowed to make an explanation."

Senator Truman said that any written statement Wyer cared to make would be inserted in the record.

"I want to be heard now," shouted Wyer. "You've heard only part of the story. I was under certain compulsions. Instructions were placed on me. To obey them intelligently, I thought it necessary to make the reports in this way."

Senator Truman informed Wyer that he would be heard further on Wednesday of next week, and adjourned the hearing until 10 a.m. Tuesday.

3 KILLED IN CRASH ON 66 NEAR BOURBON

Driver Attempted to Pass Truck and Collided With Another One.

Three persons were killed yesterday when the automobile, in which they were driving to their home in Tulsa, Ok., collided with a truck on Highway 66, a mile west of Bourbon, in Crawford County, Mo.

Mrs. Nathan Carter, 27 years old, and her husband's 2-year-old nephew, Bennie Randall, were killed instantly. Her sister, Miss Willis May McDonald, 16, died of a fractured skull six hours after the accident. Carter, the driver, suffered minor injuries.

Carter, driving west, attempted to pass a large transport truck and smashed into another truck, approaching from the opposite direction, before he could get back into the proper traffic lane. Witnesses said he made an effort to pass to the left of the approaching truck but became confused.

The impact of the light coach dislodged from the bed of the truck a pile of wood planks which fell on the top of the automobile, crushing it and pinning the occupants. A section crew working on the Frisco Railroad track along the road lifted the lumber from the automobile and removed the occupants.

Mrs. Carter and the child suffered crushed skulls. Miss McDonald died in the office of a Sullivan physician where she was taken for treatment of a fractured skull. Carter was treated for a head laceration and bruises.

The driver of the lumber truck was Amos Wisdom of Shirley, Mo. A verdict of accident was returned at an inquest at Bourbon.

The motorists were returning to Tulsa from Mannington, W. Va., where Carter had worked as a machine operator in construction of a pipe line.

UNION RECALLEDMember of Victim's Family Say He Had Feared Assault Since His Return to Work Two Weeks Ago

Raymond Coyle, a laborer in the warehouse of the Crunden-Martin Manufacturing Co., 760 South Second street, was beaten and kicked to death by two men in an alley near the warehouse last evening after he had quit work.

The beating was witnessed by Miss Christina Berens, stenographer for a truck terminal company at 210 Gratiot street, from a window in her office.

Coyle's assailants, Miss Berens said, had jerked his lumber jacket over his head—an old trick of skilled thugs which prevents their victims from fighting back—and were punching him on the head and shoulders when her attention was attracted to the alley by the barking of a pet dog in her office.

Kicked in the Neck.

As she looked on from the window, Miss Berens said, Coyle sagged helplessly to the ground, and one of his assailants kicked him in the neck.

Coyle, 27 years old, was dead on arrival at City Hospital. An autopsy showed his neck had been broken. He lived at 4151 Schiller place with his mother, Mrs. Dora Richards. His wife, Mrs. May Coyle, whom he married a year ago, has been visiting her parents at Edgewater, Colo.

Members of Coyle's family told police he had feared, when he went back to work two weeks ago after a layoff, that he would be beaten because he had refused to join a union which was being organized at the warehouse. He had been employed there for a year and a half, and worked several evenings each week at filling stations on Grand boulevard.

At the inquest today an open coroner's verdict of homicide was returned. Patrolman William Phelan, one of the policemen who went to the scene, testified he "understood" Coyle had been called back to work in advance of union members who were said to have more seniority than he.

Woman Calls Police.

Quitting work yesterday at 4:15 p.m., Coyle stopped in a tavern at Second and Gratiot streets, where he had two glasses of beer. After about 20 minutes he started walking west on Gratiot street. The alley in which he was beaten runs south from Gratiot, between Second and Third streets. It was 5:05 p.m. when Miss Berens saw Coyle being beaten and telephoned police.

When police got there they found Edwin Nlemeyer, 6111A Alabama avenue, salesman for a pie company, bending over Coyle, attempting to revive him. Nlemeyer said he had been driving by and stopped when he saw Coyle lying in the alley, with two or three men standing beside him. The others left before police arrived.

Neither Nlemeyer nor Miss Berens was able to give a good description of Coyle's assailants. Nlemeyer had paid no attention to the men he saw, and Miss Berens said only that they appeared to be between 23 and 25 years old, of medium build, and were dressed in working clothes.

MANCHESTER AVENUE LIGHTS

Transfer of Funds Approved by Board of Estimate.

A transfer of $8000 of Department of Public Utility funds, in order to provide electric street lights for Manchester avenue, between Kingshighway and the western city limits, was approved today by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The transfer was from a surplus in the light maintenance account.

There will be 130 electric lights on concrete standards, replacing 90 gas lamps and affording much greater illumination. This two-and-a-quarter-mile thoroughfare, much of which has the car tracks in the extreme south side of the roadway, has been hazardous for traffic.

JACK GARR FREED, HIS BROTHER ROY PLEADS INSANITY

Fate of One Who Fired Shots That Killed Henry H. Denhardt Remains for Jury to Decide.

DOCTORS SUPPORT DEFENSE CONTENTION

Say Accused Was Temporarily Unbalanced— Fellow Officers Declare Denhardt Was 'Violent.'

By the Associated Press.
SHELBYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 22.—The murder charge against Jack Garr was dismissed today, while the case against his brother, Roy, who admits the shooting and killing of Henry H. Denhardt, was left to the jury.

Circuit Judge Charles C. Marshall sustained a defense motion to dismiss the charge as to Jack Garr, youngest of the three brothers charged with killing the man who was under charges of murdering their sister, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor.

Judge Marshall instructed the jury to find Roy Guilty of either first degree murder or voluntary manslaughter or to acquit him. Arguments will begin later today.

E. S. Garr, the third brother, is not on trial. When the case was called counsel said he was in a sanitarium. He suffered shell shock during the World War.

More Testimony on Insanity.

The defense offered additional testimony today in an attempt to show that Roy Garr was emotionally insane when he shot Denhardt here the night of last Sept. 20. It is conceded that he fired the fatal shots. His brother, E. S., fired twice, but hit no one. Jack Garr had no pistol at the time.

Dr. E. B. Smith and Dr. W. H. Nash, both of Shelbyville, concurred today in the opinion expressed yesterday by three other physicians that Roy Garr had been temporarily unbalanced. The defense contends Garr had heard that Denhardt's second trial on charges of murdering Mrs. Taylor's counsel would introduce evidence "casting reflection upon the virtue" of the woman.

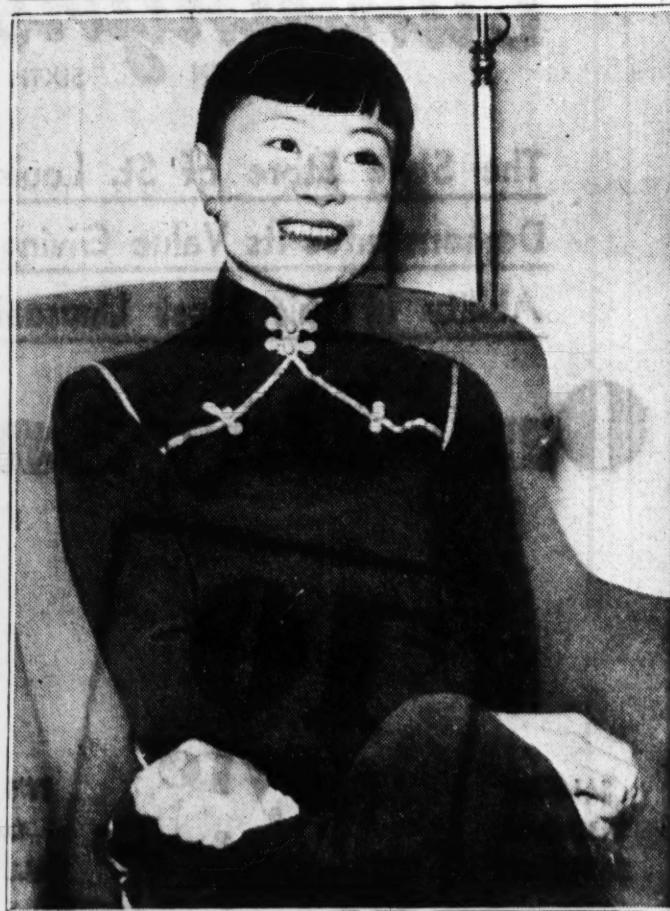

Following up similar testimony yesterday, additional witnesses were put on the stand today to show that Denhardt was of a "violent" nature. Lieut. J. C. Wyatt of the Kentucky State Police, and Louis Hall, a Louisville police detective, supported this point. Denhardt was a brigadier and former adjutant-general of the Kentucky National Guard.

The two daughters of Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Mary Pryor Brown and Miss Frances Taylor, sat with their uncles, Roy and Jack Garr, again today as the defense neared the end of its testimony.

O. L. LUMAGHI SUED FOR FAILURE TO WED

Miss Mary Jenkins of Beaufort, S. C., Asks for $50,000, Alleging Broken Promise.

Octavious L. Lumaghi, chairman of the board of the Lumaghi Coal Co., was sued for $50,000, for alleged breach of promise to marry, by Miss Mary Jenkins of Beaufort, S. C., in Circuit Court yesterday.

She asserts that he has property worth more than $100,000. Importuning her to accept, he proposed marriage to her last May 6 and she agreed, she says. The wedding, she continues, was arranged for June 19, but he failed to appear then and since has disregarded his promise to marry.

Announcement of the contemplated wedding was published in various newspapers and Miss Jenkins prepared her clothing and was "ready, willing and able" to be married, she goes on. Abandonment of the wedding caused her embarrassment and wounded her feelings, affection and pride, she charges.

Lumaghi is traveling in Europe. His St. Louis home is at 4633 Pershing avenue, but in recent years he has resided in Missoula, Mont., and in Arizona. Miss Jenkins' attorney said to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

MISS SZE TELLS OF AID GIVEN CHINA BY WOMEN

Mme. Chiang and Her Sisters Typify War Feminists, She Says in Lecture.

Chinese women are playing a part in the Chinese-Japanese struggle comparable to that of American women in the World War, Miss Mai-mai Sze, daughter of Dr. Sao-ke Alfred Sze, former Chinese Ambassador to the United States, told the St. Louis Woman's Club in an address yesterday afternoon.

Their activity, she said, is possible only because China has had a feminist revolution, which enables her women to take places alongside men in the professions and in business and political life. There was even, she related, a woman's battalion taking part in recent fighting around Shanghai. Miss Sze said the "feminist revolution" has affected dress and manners in China just as similar movements have done in other countries.

With a wave at her own boyish bob, she told a Post-Dispatch reporter in an interview preceding the address that Chinese girls bob their hair, and as for makeup, "they knew about it centuries before western women."

Her English is Precise. Educated in England and at Wellesley College, from which she was graduated in 1931, Miss Sze described herself as "more westernized" than most Chinese women.

Until the present struggle united all factions in China, Miss Sze said, her brother-in-law, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek. At her husband's death she sided with that "wing of her husband's followers which gave a Communist interpretation to his teachings."

However, Miss Sze explained Chinese Communism as a primitive co-operation among agrarian people and, she said, few Chinese Communists "have ever heard of Karl Marx and the machine civilization around which he built his doctrine means nothing to them."

Miss Sze described Mme. Chiang as "the most powerful woman in any nation today" and as "the most westernized of the three Soong sisters."

Likening China today to the United States before adoption of the Constitution, Miss Sze said her country is "working toward" stability and is engaged in a vast reconstruction program, first steps in which were re-organization of the schools, roads and communications.

She thinks China has a "good chance to win" the present war. "My reason," she explained, "is that it is less sensitive to the economic effects of war than Japan. Most Chinese provinces are almost wholly self-sufficient. Half the country could be laid waste without impairing the economy of the other half. Japan has thrown all the force of her mechanized war machine into the struggle without making much of a dent, and China can last indefinitely."

Tells of Soong Sisters. She told her audience that poets have painted a "false picture of Chinese women as beautiful and witless." Instead of the China doll types, she said, three sisters of the Soong family typify modern Chinese womanhood. These are Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Generalissimo and herself secretary of the nation's air force; Mme. Sun Yat-sen, widow of the founder of the Chinese Republic, and Mme. H. H. Kung, wife of the Chinese Minister of Finance. The latter holds no official position but, Miss Sze said, yields great influence unofficially.

The suit was assigned to Judge William S. Connor's court, and was set for trial Nov. 4.

ROLLA SILVER FOX FARMS RECEIVERSHIP SUIT FILED

President of Company Denies Plaintiffs' Allegation That It Is Operating at Loss.

Suit for a receiver for the Rolla Silver Fox Farms, Inc., near Rolla, Mo., was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Donald P. Rogers of University City, who alleges that the business is operated at loss.

LaMar denied to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the company, which was organized in 1931, is operating at loss. He said it is indebted to him for money advanced and he holds notes for the obligation.

The suit was assigned to Judge William S. Connor's court, and was set for trial Nov. 4.

MINIMUM WAGES ANNOUNCED FOR SUBSIDIZED SHIPS

Federal Marine Board Fixes Pay at $35 Monthly to $390 — Provision for Vacations.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Minimum wages ranging from $35 to $390 a month will go into effect Nov. 1 for officers and crews of 155 Federally-subsidized vessels in the merchant marine.

The wage scale, announced last night by the Maritime Commission, affects every ship employee from bell boys to licensed engineer officers.

Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy of the commission, said that cleaner and more comfortable living standards would be required for the 30,000 men covered by the order.

In the unlicensed personnel classification, the scale provides for pay ranging from $35 a month for bell boys to $120 a month for the chief steward. The pay for able seamen and firemen is set at $72.50 a month. Board and lodging on ship are furnished.

Wages for licensed personnel, or officers, were fixed according to the tonnage of vessels and range from $265 for first officers in the largest vessels to $115 for the lowest-paid licensed officers. Minimum wages for licensed engineer officers range from $390 to $115. The $390 is for chief engineer on the largest ships.

Special provisions as to wages and working conditions were made for radio operators. Ships with only one operator are to pay a minimum of $125 and those with more than one are to pay the lowest in rank not less than $110.

Better Work Denied.

While the sailing seamen's complaints of low wages, vermin-infested and unventilated quarters, Kennedy let the men know the commission wants better reports of their work. Seamen's conduct, even on first-rate vessels, has grown so bad, he said, that passenger complaints pour into commission offices steadily.

The wage scale, Kennedy said, is about the same as that specified in collective bargaining contracts in force on the west coast and generally is somewhat higher than the east coast scale.

New in shipping circles is a provision that unlicensed personnel (all the crew except officers) shall get a week's vacation with pay after a year's continuous service and two weeks in succeeding years. Two-week vacations are ordered for officers.

Not Submitted to Union.

The commission chairman said the new standards would affect 155 of 442 ships in the American Merchant Marine. Of the ships affected, 80 operate from Atlantic coast ports, 64 from Gulf ports and 11 from Pacific ports.

The commission's order was not submitted to labor representatives, Kennedy said. He said he had not discussed that or any other specific matter with John L. Lewis, under whose Committee for Industrial Organization the National Maritime Union has been organizing seamen.

He said he had talked with Lewis only once about "general maritime labor conditions" and that was many months ago. He has been in conference with other labor leaders from time to time, he said.

MRS. HAHN TOOK ELDERLY SICK MAN TO DENVER HOTEL

Manager Identifies Defendant and Says She Wouldn't Let Maid Clean Room of Companion.

COBBLER DIED
FEW DAYS LATER

Court Admits Evidence of Three Other Deaths After Arguments Last All Day.

By the Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, Oct. 22.—A Denver hotel manager testified in the murder trial of Anna Marie Hahn today that she registered at his hotel July 25 with George Obendoerfer, who died a week later in Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Hahn is charged with poisoning Jacob Wagner, 78 years old, but a Court order today permitted testimony concerning deaths of other aged men, including Obendoerfer, 67-year-old Cincinnati cobbler.

The State contends Obendoerfer, Wagner and others were poisoned for their money.

Louis Straub, who said he was a Denver City Councilman and manager of the Midland Hotel there, said Mrs. Hahn signed the register for Obendoerfer. The signature was offered in evidence.

Straub testified that Mrs. Hahn was the only person to bring food to Obendoerfer's room and that she refused to admit a maid. On the maid's report that the room needed cleaning, he said he questioned Mrs. Hahn in his office.

Had Only $4.85.

He said he inquired if the aged German had any money.

"He's broke; he has only $4.85," Straub quoted her as replying.

A Cincinnati branch bank manager, August Geile, testified previously that Obendoerfer drew $350 from the bank July 16.

Straub declared the pair and Mrs. Hahn's 12-year-old son left July 30, Mrs. Hahn telling him she had promised to see that Obendoerfer got to Colorado Springs.

Before leaving, Straub said, she declared Obendoerfer had a check for $1000 and was looking for a chicken ranch.

Straub said he saw Mrs. Hahn in his hotel again Aug. 2 and she told him "the old gentleman" was "doing nicely." Obendoerfer died the day before.

Defense counsel brought out on cross-examination that Obendoerfer and Mrs. Hahn had separate rooms.

Pell P. Turner of the Park Hotel, Colorado Springs, testified just before a noon recess that Mrs. Hahn and her son Obendoerfer registered there July 30.

"She registered for him alone, then registered for herself about five minutes later," said Turner. "He looked like a very sick man."

Common Pleas Judge Charles S. Bell's decision to admit testimony concerning the deaths of three other elderly men came after a day of arguments by rival attorneys and after Outcalt declared that the State's evidence was complete in Wagner's death, which he said was accomplished by poisoning.

The prosecutor said that as a result of the ruling, he had many more witnesses to be heard.

Judge Bell said: "While the general rule unquestionably is that a distinct crime in no way connected with that upon which the defendant stands indicted cannot be given in evidence against one on trial, this rule is not applicable to a case in which a connection between the offense charged and others of a similar nature existed in the mind of the defendant."

To Alter Defense Plans.

The Judge then granted a short recess while the defense prepared an objection of an undisclosed nature. Counsel indicated the ruling would alter their plans for defense.

Outcalt named three Cincinnatians, Albert Palmer, 72 years old; George Gsellman, 67, and George Obendoerfer, as the poison victims of the woman on trial for the death of Wagner, 78.

George Heis, a former coal company collector, Outcalt described as "The only one of these individuals that is still alive today."

Mrs. Hahn, the prosecutor added, defrauded Heis of $2000 of the company's collections when she muled Palmer in an attempt to pay back the funds when Heis' firm learned of her scheme.

"Palmer died of poison," Outcalt concluded.

The death of Obendoerfer in Colorado Springs, Colo., on Aug. 1, after Mrs. Hahn had accompanied him on a trip from Cincinnati, had been described previously.

"Smoke Screen," Says Defense.

Chief Defense Counsel Joseph H. Hoodin, termed reference to the other deaths as "just another smoke screen to confuse the jury."

"The State hasn't begun to prove that Mrs. Hahn administered poison to Wagner," Hoodin told the Court. He contended the State had failed to establish that a bottle found in the woman's home, containing what Outcalt said was poison similar to that found in Wagner's body, ever belonged to her.

Mrs. Hahn ignored most of the legal arguments, occupying herself by reading law books and transcripts of past testimony. Her husband, Philip, greeted her after she was taken back to jail.

'HUNGER DISEASE' IS DESCRIBED BY ALABAMA DOCTOR

Hyperinsulinism May Result From Too Many Soft Drinks in Summer, Dr.
Seale Harris Says.

IT IS OPPOSITE OF DIABETES

Inter-State Post-Graduate Medical Convention in Closing Sessions at Auditorium.

Consuming too many soft drinks in warm weather may result in hyperinsulinism, a disease which is the opposite of diabetes. Dr. Seale Harris of the University of Alabama declared today at the closing session of the assembly of the Inter-State Post-Graduate Medical Association at Municipal Auditorium.

Many stout persons who are constantly hungry have the disease without being aware of it, he continued. Strangely enough they may develop diabetes later, after the pancreas has been exhausted. Diabetes results from an accumulation of sugar in the blood, due to the failure of insulin in the body, secreted by the pancreas, to burn the sugar fast enough. Hyperinsulin-ism, on the other hand, results from too little sugar in the blood.

A person who has that disease,
Dr. Harris explained, has an excessive appetite and is weak, nervous and irritable, unless he gets a lot of food, even between meals. He also has headaches and sometimes convulsions. The "hunger disease," as it is called, was first described in 1923 and some of the best work on it was done at Washington University by Dr. Evaris Graham, Dr.
Nathan Womack and the late Dr.
McKim Marriott, the speaker continued.

Minor cases of hyperinsulinism can be relieved by a high fat, low carbohydrate diet, but some major cases require operations to remove a small tumor on the pancreas, which is the source of all the trouble.

Authority on Diabetes Tells of New Discovery.

Dr. Elliott P. Joslin of Harvard University, an authority on diabetes, who was installed today as president of the association, said a revolutionary discovery in London
—the production of diabetes by daily injections of anterior pituitary extract—has opened up thousands of opportunities for new research in that field.

"Never before has permanent diabetes been produced in any way, except by interference with the pancreas," he pointed out. "If one can produce diabetes with pituitary extract, is there some extract in the body which will unproduce it?"

Diabetics formerly died at an average age of 44, but now usually live to 63, making them more susceptible to hardening of the arteries, he pointed out. On the other hand, diabetic coma has largely disappeared. Diabetic gangrene is lessening, too, due to improvements in the care of the feet.

Census Report Cited to Show Extent of Arthritis.

More persons are incapacitated by chronic arthritis than by heart disease, cancer and tuberculosis combined, said Dr. Cyrus C. Sturgis of the University of Michigan. His conclusion was based on a census taken in Massachusetts a few years ago.

Because chronic arthritis does not have a high mortality rate, however, there has been little research in that field, he added. Regarding treatment, he said rest and the prevention of deformities were most important.

Gout, once quite common, is no longer seen very often by physicians, he said. The reason for its lessening, he said, is not known.

Fibroid Tumor of Uterus Successfully Treated.

The medical profession believes that every woman, after the middle period of life, should be under the careful observation of the family physician, so that if any fibroid tumor of the uterus appears, she may be given proper advice and adequate treatment, Dr. William D.
Haggard of Vanderbilt University, former president of the American Medical Association, declared.

It is a crime for a woman to neglect a tumor of that sort in view of the fact that strikingly successful results have been obtained in treating those tumors either by radium or surgery, he asserted. In 1025 cases which he has treated, Dr. Haggard pointed out, 668 tumors were removed by operation and 96.9 per cent of the patients recovered. Of 357 patients treated with radium, all but one recovered.

Fibroid tumors of the uterus occur in 12 per cent of white women and in a far larger percentage of Negro women. More than half have no symptoms and require no treatment unless unpleasant symptoms arise, he said. The origin of the tumor is unknown. Before it becomes very large it can be permanently cured by radium, with little risk, he asserted. A woman with such a tumor is far more like-ity, Dr. Emil Novak of Johns Hopkins University asserted. Both male and female sex hormones are closely related to chemicals known to produce cancer in animals, he added.

More has been learned about sex hormones in the last 25 years than in all the time before, he declared. Unfortunately the knowledge gained by research workers on the function of sex glands of women cannot be transferred quickly into methods of treating women with glandular troubles, he added.

Scarlet Fever Cases Increasing; Fatalities Decreasing.

Although the number of deaths from scarlet fever is dropping, the number of cases is rising, Dr. John A. Toomey of Western Reserve University said. Diphtheria cases are decreasing but are more severe. Regarding mumps, the most common cause of sterility in men, serum from patients who have recovered is being used more widely to prevent the disease, he pointed out.

Drugs Found to Cure Endocarditis in Dogs.

Through the use of sulfaamide and a mercurial drug it has been possible to cure dogs suffering from endocarditis, inflammation of the lining of the cavity of the heart, Dr. Ralph A. Kinsella of St. Louis University related. However, the same drugs have failed to cure human beings.

The difference may lie in the fact that human beings usually get the disease as a result of rheumatism, whereas the dogs get it by mechanical injury of their heart valves in the experimental laboratory, he continued. The experiment has reached the stage now where dogs cured of endocarditis are being reinfected with the germs. It is expected that they will now more closely approximate the problem presented in curing human beings.

At present there is no known cure for endocarditis in human beings, Dr. Kinsella pointed out. Experimentation with dogs began 20 years ago. After they are inoculated with streptococci, they apparently get the same type of endocarditis as that found in human beings, he said.

Diverticulitis Has Symptoms Similar to Appendicitis.

The mortality rate in exploratory abdominal operations has been cut almost to the vanishing point, the rate now being about one death in 500 cases, William H. Ogilvie of London, a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, pointed out.

Where the possibility of cancer of the stomach exists, the risk of delay, he asserted. Regarding cancer of the breast and of the large intestine, he said that 90 per cent of the cases are curable by surgery if caught early enough.

Because teeth and the mouth are being kept cleaner, cancer of the tongue appears to be on the decrease, Ogilvie said. Better diagnosis and increased longevity may make it appear that all cancer cases are on the increase, but actually that is probably not the case, he asserted.

Apparent Connection Between Cancer and Sex Gland Activity.

It is becoming apparent that there is a close connection between cancer and abnormal sex gland activity.

Sympathies Wired to Health Officer Who Reported Elixir Deaths.

Dr. Seale Harris of Birmingham, Ala., who spoke today before the assembly of the Inter-State Post-Graduate Medical Association at Municipal Auditorium, sent the following telegram to Dr. A. S. Calhoun, Covington County (Miss.) health officer:

"I sympathize sincerely with you in the loss of your patients and friends, but I am proud of your courage and your devotion to the highest ideals of the medical profession by telling the truth, that others might be saved from the dangers resulting from the use of the elixir of sulfanilamide. Physicians attending international post-graduate assembly commend you for doing your duty."

MADRID LIMITS POSSESSION OF FOOD TO 15 LBS. A PERSON

Violators to Be Fined as Hoarders; Bread Ration Increased When Flour Arrives.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Oct. 22.—The possession of more than 15.4 pounds of food was made a criminal offense by a new decree issued yesterday by the food supply department.

Violators will be treated as hoarders and will be fined. No food may be taken into Madrid without a permit and no person can import more than 15.4 pounds.

The new regulations, effective Oct. 25, will fall with special severity on many foreign governments which have been importing food regularly for political refugees in their care. Exception of certain governments is a possibility. With the arrival of new supplies of flour, the daily bread ration will be increased today from 3.5 ounces to 5.25 ounces a person. Fresh meat virtually has disappeared from the markets and the Municipal Government has begun rationing thousands of boxes of corned beef which arrived from Argentina.

Investigators Go Over Route of Insurance Man to Whom Note Was Traced.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22—Finding of a ransom bill intensified the search for Charles E. Ross and his abductors today and led investigators to believe the kidnaping was the work of a Chicago gang.

Federal agents focused their search on the Chicago area when Mrs. Clara Ludwig, 41 years old, a railroad freight clerk, found she possessed a $10 bill which was part of the $50,000 ransom paid by the family of Ross.

Mrs. Ludwig said she received the bill from Florence Giacinto, 20, a roomer at her home. The latter said she received it from William J. Wernecke, an insurance collector.

More Bills Sought.

Federal agents immediately questioned Wernecke at his home and then accompanied him on an automobile tour which presumably took them to policy holders on the collector's route. They refused to deny or confirm a report that other ransom bills have been uncovered.

Federal agents sought to encourage close inspection of $5, $10 and $20 notes by explaining the Government would exchange all ransom bills found. Lists of the serial numbers of the $5250 ransom bills were distributed Tuesday. The ransom is thought to have been paid on or before Oct. 8.

Police investigated a possible link between an automobile seized on the South Side yesterday and the kidnaping. The automobile was found in a private garage and contained a rifle, a sawed-off shotgun, seven boxes of cartridges, two pairs of goggles, and three masks.

Miss Florence Freihage, former secretary to Ross who was with him the night of the kidnaping, reported three men were in the kidnapers' car. Mrs. Kazimira Raskutio, owner of the garage, said two men rented it Oct. 8, and never returned.

Mississippi Bridges Watched.

Federal operatives and deputy sheriffs stopped cars at the bridge over the Mississippi River at Savanna, Ill., last night after receiving a report that the kidnapers were headed in that direction. Bridges at Clinton and Dubuque, Ia., also were watched.

An unidentified man made the report to Mayor Rhene B. Law and then immediately drove away in a car. A ransom letter was said to have been mailed to Mrs. Ross from Savanna 11 days ago.

The fate of the 72-year-old victim remains a mystery. Ross, a retired manufacturer, was seized from his car the night of Sept. 26 on a highway 15 miles west of the city. The kidnaping scene was near Bensenville, where William Hamm Jr., of St. Paul, Minn., was held prisoner after being kidnaped by the Karpis gang.

Investigators have expressed the opinion Ross died of shock or was killed by his abductors. He was in frail health.

HANGS HERSELF FROM FENCE

Miss Agnes Walsh Found Dead, Body Suspended From Board.

Miss Agnes Walsh, 5964 Kernerly avenue, was found dead at 7:30 a.m. today, hanged from a board fence in the rear of 2710 Dodier street. She had tied the belts of her coat and dress together, knotted one end around a board at the top of the fence and the other end around her neck.

Members of her family told police she had been suffering from a mental ailment and had been missing from her home since yesterday afternoon. She was 45 years old.

Two Men Assault Nurse When They Fall to Find Child in Rhode Island Home.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 22.—Police are hunting for two men who failed in an attempt to kidnap the infant son of Secretary of State Louis W. Capelli yesterday.

The men, wearing smoked glasses, fled in a green automobile after assaulting the child's nurse, Mrs. Mary Carbel, after she refused to disclose the whereabouts of the year and a half old boy.

The nurse told police the men approached her while she was hanging out clothes in the rear of the Capelli home and demanded to know where they could locate the child. When she refused to tell, she said, one of the men, waving a pistol, grabbed her arm, tore the front of her dress and slapped her face while his accomplice exhorted him to "plug" her.

The would-be kidnapers missed the child by a few minutes. The daughter of the nursemaid had just left the Capelli home to take the attendant as he responded to Mrs. Capelli's telephone call to come home and bring somebody with you."

OIL PRICE BOARD MEMBER BOUGHT BELOW THE SCALE

Walter P. Jacobi, Purchasing Agent for Two Companies, Cross-Examined at Madison.

DEFENSE ALLOWED TO BRING IN N R A

U. S. Judge Rules Corporations May Attempt to Show They Acted in Good Faith.

By the Associated Press
MADISON, Wis., Oct. 22—Walter Paul Jacobi of Tulsa, Ok., who testified in the Federal Government's gasoline price fixing case that he served on a committee which recommended prices in a major oil companies' buying program, said during cross-examination today he bought gasoline at prices below published quotations. Referring frequently to two large charts showing published spot prices during 1935 and 1936, Jacobi, purchasing agent for Socony-Vacuum and Wadham's Oil companies, testified he bought third grade gasoline during the program, mostly at 1/2 cent below published quotations.

He said he made certain purchases at the published "low" because the gasoline had a guaranteed higher octane rating than average third grade gasoline in the Mid-Continent field.

In direct examination by the Government earlier in the week, Jacobi said the price increases he recommended usually became "the market" and were followed by rises in the quotations.

"Beat Down" Prices.

Jacobi admitted yesterday he "beat down" prices of small refineries for "distress" gasoline and that he had the reputation of being a "hard trader."

Judge Patrick T. Stone opened the way yesterday for attorneys representing 23 defendant oil companies to present a defense based on the invalidated N R A and 1935 conditions in the oil industry.

In a one-hour informal discussion in open court, with more than 40 attorneys gathered about his desk, Judge Stone indicated that the defense had the right to attempt to show that the defendants acted in good faith, that the defense was entitled to show facts and circumstances surrounding their activities, and to go as far as it can to prove formal or apparent Governmental authority for the oil companies' gasoline buying.

Although Judge Stone denied the motion which precipitated the debate—the move of the defense to offer copies of the N R A petroleum code and President Roosevelt's approval thereof in evidence at this point of the trial—he permitted the defense, in cross-examination of principal Government witnesses to date, to bring up the subject of the code.

Expected to Admit Exhibits.

The judge said, however, the defense might offer these exhibits again later, and indicated he would admit them.

At the opening of the trial nearly three weeks ago, Judge Stone, on motion of Government counsel, warned Chief Defense Counsel William J. Donovan not to claim the Government's approval of the companies' activities unless he could offer formal proof—which Special Prosecutor John Henry Lewin defined as written approval by President Roosevelt or of Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, petroleum administrator.

The defense opened cross-examination of the prosecutor's principal witnesses and attempted to show that concerted buying from independent refineries had the approval of N R A.

WITNESSES SAY ATTORNEYS MOVEMENT IS MILITARISTIC

Counsel for International Workers Order Questioned at Boston Hearing.

BOSTON, Oct. 22. The Boy Scout movement was characterized yesterday as militaristic by Joseph R. Brodsky, counsel for the International Workers Order, Inc., as he testified before a special commission investigating Communist, Nazi, Fascist and Ku Klux Klan activities in Massachusetts.

Brodsky, who testified he was not a member of the Communist party, had described the work of the workers order. He produced books and records detailing its activities in Massachusetts to the committee.

Asked by former Representative Leo V. Halloran, a member of the commission, concerning the difference between the Boy Scouts of America and the youth movement of the order, Brodsky replied:

"Army and reserve officers are held up to them (the Boy Scouts) as models and they are inculcated with the idea that war is glorious. They should be educated to take advantage of their creative ability, not in military ideals." He said bugles were used in the Boy Scouts "to whip up a militaristic spirit" and asserted the uniform created a similar feeling.

Measure, Part of Smoke Abatement Program, Effective When Mayor Signs.

An ordinance for licensing and bonding all dealers in solid fuel-coal and coke—was passed unanimously by the Board of Aldermen today.

It is an administration measure, intended to assist in the movement for smoke abatement. Mayor Dickmann announced he would sign it promptly. As it carries an emergency clause, it will become effective as soon as approved by the Mayor.

The fuel dealers will have to furnish surety bonds of $1000 each to guarantee against violation of this or any other pertinent ordinance. The annual license fee, for the calendar year, will be $10.

Amount of the bond was reduced by the aldermanic Public Safety Committee from $1500 and of the license fee from $50. The bill was passed under suspension of the rules when reported by the committee.

Provisions of Ordinance.
"No person," the ordinance provides, "shall produce, import or haul any solid fuel, nor shall any person store any solid fuel for immediate or future hauling, for use in the city of St. Louis, without first obtaining a solid fuel permit."

Exemption is made, however, of peddlers, defined as those selling coal by the bag, basket or bushel measure in lots of less than 1000 pounds.

Hauling of fuel will be limited to vehicles owned or controlled by permittees and registered by them with the Smoke Commissioner. The vehicles must display on their sides, in letters at least three inches high, the names and addresses of permittees and the permit numbers.

Sources from which each dealer obtains his supply of fuel must be filed with the Smoke Commissioner, and any changes of source reported. The commissioner and his inspectors will have access to the premises and supplies of licensed dealers.

The surety bonds would protect the city or any person against losses, damages, fines or penalties incurred through any violation of the law by the permittee. Specifically they would be to "save harmless any purchaser."

A fine of $10 to $500 is provided for violation of the ordinance. Smoke Commissioner Raymond R. Tucker, until recently Mayor Dickmann's secretary, was in the aldermanic chambers today, lobbying for passage of the measure. He will have the authority to approve applications for permits, but will notify the Board of Public Service of any applications received.

Two Votes Sustained.

Vetoos by Mayor Dickmann of bills to repeal authority for erecting two highway toll bridges over the Mississippi were sustained by the board. In the case of the bridge proposed for the vicinity of Franklin Avenue by the city of East St. Louis, the vote to uphold the veto was 24 to 4. In the case of a proposal by St. Clair County, for a bridge landing near Millikin Avenue, the vote was 26 to 2.

The Mayor rejected the repealers because public hearings had not been held on them and because he regarded the previous ordinances as contracts. Alderman Otto L. Lietchen, sponsor of the repealers, expressed the opinion that neither bridge would be built and said their backers had been seeking to sell bonds on the structures. He declared the crossings were unnecessary.

Bills were introduced as follows: To appropriate $30,000 of municipal revenue for resurfacing nine miles of streets this winter, with the aid of $100,000 offered by the WPA for employment of 700 men, and with the addition of $30,000 worth of rock from the Workhouse quarry; for appointment by the Mayor of an unsalaried commission of 15, whose expenses would be paid, to arrange an exhibit for the 1939 world's fair in New York; to require all telephone subscribers, without exception, to clean telephone mouthpieces monthly with a proper disinfectant; to increase the automobile parking limit from one to two hours in the district bounded by Fourth, Broadway and Market Streets and Franklin Avenue.

Public hearings were announced as follows: Next Wednesday, 2 p.m., on a bill for taxing garages and parking lots; Nov. 3, 1:30 p.m., on a bill to prohibit all daytime parking downtown.

GRANTWOOD VILLAGE PETITION

Hearing on Incorporation Set for Nov. 3.

A petition for incorporation as Grantwood Village was filed in the County Court of St. Louis County today by 60 property owners residing on a 40-acre tract on the north side of Gravois Road just east of the Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks.

Forty of the petitioners reside in the area and 20 of the property owners live elsewhere. The stated purpose of incorporation is to provide local government and police protection. A hearing will be held by the court Nov. 3.

Driver's License Suspended a Year.
Leroy Green's license to drive an automobile was suspended for one year, when Police Judge James F. Nangle found him guilty today of a charge of driving while intoxicated. Green, 20-year-old laborer, 912 Carroll street, was also fined $150 on the charge, as well as $25 for leaving the scene of an accident and $2 for careless driving.

BIRD GANG MEMBER
ADmits BANK HOLDUPSEscaped Missouri Convict Pleads Guilty—Judge Considers Death Penalty.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22.—With a crime record of 19 years, including murder and bank robbery, James Widmer faces second life sentence—or possible execution.

Widmer, 31-year-old member of the Bird Brothers' gang, pleaded guilty yesterday before United States District Judge Paul Jones of participating in three Cleveland bank robberies.

Informed he faced a possible death sentence because of kidnapping a bank employee during one of the holdups, Widmer replied: "I might as well be dead as alive. I'll plead guilty to everything."

Judge Jones ordered a search for a ruling on whether a Judge alone is empowered to impose death. The law reads that a Judge may pronounce such sentence if recommended by a jury. Life sentence is mandatory.

Widmer was returned here yesterday from Philadelphia, where he was captured last week in a stolen car. His fellow fugitives, Frank and Charles Bird, remain at large. They all escaped from jail here Sept. 22. All are convicts who escaped from the Missouri penitentiary.

Widmer and Theodore Slapik, the fourth man in the jail break, fought with manacled hands when they met in the questioning room yesterday. Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell and seven deputies subdued them. Widmer had called Slapik a liar. Slapik was recaptured here.

Widmer received his first prison sentence in 1918, was convicted in 1926 of first degree murder and sentenced to life in the Missouri penitentiary, from which he escaped early this year.

PROGRESSIVE PICKETS GET OFF MINE'S PROPERTY.

Withdraw at Marissa, Ill., at Request of St. Clair County Sheriff.

Pickets of the Progressive Miners of America, who had camped in the washhouse on the property of the Marissa Coal Co. at Marissa, Ill., since Oct. 14, when the company's Okay mine was reopened with rival United Mine Workers members, withdrew to tents at the edge of the mine premises today at the request of Sheriff Henry L. Siekmann.

The Sheriff took the action after company officers filed notice they would hold St. Clair County responsible for any damage to property that might result from picketing. Progressive miners have been on strike at the mine since last April. Operations were suspended last Monday after a demonstration by several thousand Progressives.

The United Mine Workers yesterday asked the National Labor Relations Board at St. Louis to hold an election of employees at the mine to determine which union they preferred. Drexel Collins, executive board member for the Belleville district of the Progressive union, said today he would welcome such an election, but would insist that "only bona fide employees" be allowed to vote. These he defined as the Progressive miners who have been on strike. He said he would ask that the United miners, whom he termed "strike-breakers," be excluded.

FINDS INCREASED OPPOSITION TO WAGE AND HOUR BILL

Diss of Rules Committee Thinks Satisfactory Amendments Can Be Worked Out.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Representative Martin Dies of Orange, Tex., a member of the House Rules Committee, said today he thought opposition to the wage-hour bill had increased since Congress adjourned.

The committee blocked action on the bill at the last session by refusing to approve a rule bringing it to the House floor for consideration.

"People have had an opportunity to study the bill and the opposition to it is much greater than it was two months ago," he said in a letter.

The recent action of the A. P. of L. convention in throwing cold water on the bill and the declaration of many of the labor leaders in opposition to the present measure will do much to prevent its passage in its present form."

The Texan predicted the bill would be amended to meet objections of the Rules Committee, and said he thought satisfactory amendments could be worked out "if the Labor Committee and the President are willing to meet with the members of our committee."

METHODIST PASTOR DIES

Rev. Eli P. Anderson, formerly of St. Louis, succumbed in Kansas City, by the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 22.—The Rev. Eli P. Anderson, 76 years old, veteran Missouri Methodist minister, died of cancer yesterday. He had been pastor of churches in St. Louis, Marshall, Sedalia and Nevada as well as in Kansas City, and was district superintendent of the Carthage district and later of the Kansas City district. He was licensed to preach at the age of 16.

The Rev. Mr. Anderson came to St. Louis in 1892. He served for eight years as pastor of the Old Carondelet Church, later merged with the Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, 501 West Kossuth avenue, and then of the Dr. Fry Memorial Church, 2509 Clifton avenue. He retired in 1923.

RECORDS IN CONTEST OF SHANAHAN WILL

Hospital Reports Show Former Illinois Legislator Was Violent Before He Died.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Hospital records were introduced in evidence today in an effort to support the claim of two cousins that David E. Shanahan, former State legislator, was mentally incompetent during the illness that led to his death Oct. 13, 1936.

The cousins, Misses Margaret and Mary Flynn, were contesting a will made shortly before Shanahan's death and leaving the bulk of his $850,000 estate to Mrs. Helen Shanahan, whom he married in the hospital eight days before he died.

Daily records from Aug. 24 to the time of death were introduced by counsel for the plaintiffs. Those for Aug. 29 state Shanahan was constantly moaning and had a high pulse rate. On Aug. 30, they stated, his pulse was 110 and he was violent.

Juror Can't Understand.

The attorney was interrupted by a juror, Earl V. Hedeen, 34 years old, an optometrist, who told the Court the records "don't mean anything to me" because of medical and other scientific terms used. Other jurors nodded, apparently concurring with Hedeen's view.

The Court instructed the jurors they were to consider only what they understood. Late Dr. Arthur H. Schlesinger was placed on the stand to interpret the records.

Nine persons testified yesterday that Shanahan, six times Speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives, was incapable of making a will on the day he married Miss Troesch, his secretary for 21 years.

Real Estate Dealer Testifies.

William Gordon, a real estate insurance broker who handled much of Shanahan's property, testified that in June, 1936, he was instructed to consult with Mary Flynn in transacting Shanahan's business.

On May 27 of that year, Gordon said, he went to the hospital and witnessed a will, along with Rodgers and John Costello, another real estate dealer.

On subsequent visits in July and August, and until Sept. 14, Shanahan was rational and recognized him, Gordon testified. He said that on Sept. 29 Shanahan "appeared to be in a coma and seemed lifeless." On Oct. 3, 10 and 17, Shanahan was "awfully weak" or in a coma, Gordon added.

Gordon testified that visiting the hospital in September he talked with Rodgers about the will executed in May and quoted Rodgers as saying "he'd kill me if I testified I saw Shanahan sign that will."

Obtained Strong-Box.

On Shanahan's order, Gordon said, he obtained a strong-box from a hotel vault in July and turned it over to Mary Flynn. He said Rodgers asked him if he had inventoried the box, and when Gordon replied negatively, said, "I'll see you go to jail for that."

Attorneys for Mrs. Shanahan said the strong-box was supposed to have contained $80,000 in securities, which they contended was withheld by Mary Flynn.

Mary Margaret Prendergast, night floor nurse at the hospital until Sept. 26, testified that in May and June Shanahan's condition was "fair" but about the third week in August he changed for the worse and was often delirious, talked incoherently and was unable to help himself.

Friends for 60 Years.

Frank J. Otto, a Federal Court bailiff, who said he and Shanahan were friends for 60 years, testified he made several trips to the hospital, on the last few of which, shortly before the legislator's death, Shanahan was unable to recognize him.

Mary White, night nurse, was recalled for questioning, after entrance of hospital records showing she had noted Shanahan's condition as serious. Attorney Eugene P. Kealy for the plaintiffs contend Miss Spiering, the day nurse, had written her reports to show Shanahan was bright and in his right mind.

Miss White testified the Shanahan records were always left in his room. She added that in the last few weeks of his life he was "unable to recognize anybody."

HOLC EMPLOYEES ADOPT GROUP MEDICINE PLAN

Senator McCarran Will Inquire Into Loan of $20,000 to Get System Launched.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—A group of employees of the Home Owners Loan Corporation will begin on Nov. 1 a co-operative system for providing medical care for themselves and their families by means of a clinic and salaried doctors.

The plan already has aroused some criticism by Congressmen, who have called it a movement toward "socialized medicine." Senator McCarran (Dem.) Nevada, said he would inquire into the property of the H O L C's employees $20,000 to launch the clinic.

MURDER CHARGE IS DROPPED

J. E. Ennis Freed When Grand Jury Will Not Indict Him.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 22.—A complaint charging John E. Ennis of New Bedford, Mass., with the murder of Dr. George W. Webster today was discontinued after Assistant Attorney-General John H. Nolan had told the Court a grand jury would not indict him.

Ennis was freed immediately. He had been held without bail since Sept. 16, after pleading not guilty.

Dinner as Usual Afterward
ing—A Visit to El Escor Flamenco of And

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
SIXTH ARTICLE.
Copyright, 1937, Pulitzer Publishing Co.
MADRID, September.

WAT REMAINS above all is the impression, sharp as the light that falls on the tawny Spanish earth, of people in a war-torn world—a changing world. Here are random impressions from the notebook of a visitor to Spain.

HOTEL IN MADRID.

We stand in the doorway of what must have once been a banqueting room, listening to the soldiers who have had their dinner and their wine, eavesdropping. They are singing, the canto flamenco that is typical of Andalusia. These boys come from the neighborhood of Seville.

The song is like a flame, rising, falling, sustained at the curious,
high, harsh pitch, unearthly, strangely beautiful, not like any western kind of singing. And then the others call out their praise of the singer in deep throat voices, "Olay, olay, olay." Now with their shouting, slapping their thighs they are making the rhythmic noise of horses galloping on the highway while the voice of the singer rises and falls, improvising.

A Hint of Homeliness.

It is complete, out of nostalgia, longing for some remote hill town, out of sheer animal spirits, they have recreated this atmosphere.
It is a mountain road in the bluish moonlight, the rhythm of the hoof beats. Here in what once was meant for an elegant room, the red brocade on the walls now a little gray and frayed, these young boys singing, laughing, talking, before they go back to the front.

Partly this makes up for not being able to go to the Jarama front.
At the Jarama front, which is quiet just now, are a number of flamenco singers and they have contests, half a dozen men with guitars, 10 or a dozen singers, sitting in a circle with the audience gathered around.
But we can't go to the Jarama front because our chauffeur is afraid to go and thinks up new excuses every day, things are wrong with the small, uncertain German car that the foreign press division of the Ministry of State has put at our disposal.

Imported Liqueurs With Dinner.

The singing has been an interruption in the middle of dinner, a welcome interruption because dinner tonight is somehow particularly unpalatable. Even the oldtimers grumble a little although they add that in everyone's mind: that we have the best food in the city and, in all probability, more of it than the average citizen of Madrid.
Scarcely anyone comes down to dinner before 9:30 and what with

Dinner as Usual Afterward in Spite of Bombing—A Visit to El Escorial—The Canto Flamenco of Andalusia.

MADRID.

WHAT remains above all is the impression, sharp as the light that falls on the tawny Spanish earth, of people in a war-torn world—a changing world. Here are random impressions from the notebook of a visitor to Spain.

HOTEL IN MADRID.

We stand in the doorway of what must have once been a banqueting room, listening to the soldiers who have had their dinner and their wine, eavesdropping. They are singing, the canto flamenco that is typical of Andalusia. These boys come from the neighborhood of Seville.

The song is like a flame, rising, falling, sustained at the curious, high, harsh pitch, unearthly, strangely beautiful, not like any western kind of singing. And then the others call out their praise of the singer in deep, throaty voices, "Olay, olay, olay." Now with their hands slapping their thighs they are making the rhythmic noise of horses galloping on the highway and falls, improvising.

A Hint of Homesickness.

It is complete, out of nostalgia, longing for some remote hill town, or of sheer animal spirits, they have recreated this atmosphere. It is a mountain road in the bluish moonlight, the rhythm of the song against the rhythm of the hoof beats. Here in what once was meant for an elegant room, the red brocade on the walls now a little greasy and frayed, these young boys singing, laughing, talking, before they go back to the front.

Partly this makes up for not being able to go to the Jarama front.

At the Jarama front, which is quiet just now, are a number of flamenco singers and they have contests, half a dozen men with guitars, 10 or a dozen singers, sitting in a circle with the audience gathered around. But we can't go to the Jarama front because our chauffeur is afraid to go and thinks up new excuses every day, things that are wrong with the small, uncertain German car that the foreign press has put at our disposal.

Imperial Liqueurs With Dinner.

The singing has been an interruption in the middle of dinner, a welcome interruption because dinner tonight is somehow particularly appetizing.

Even the oldtimers grumble a little although they add what is in everyone's mind: that we have no right to grumble since we have the best food in the city and, in all probability, more of it than the average citizen of Madrid.

Scarcely anyone comes down to dinner before 9:30 and what with fruit, coffee and liqueurs it is nearly 11 before the meal is finished.

There are usually four or five courses and at the end, surprisingly enough, imported liqueurs, beneditas or conteinres.

A "Safe" Hotel.

This hotel is said to be safe, or at any rate safer than the Hotel Florida on the Gran Via which is invariably hit in a heavy shelling. But on the day I arrived the manager, who was in charge of the hotel for several years before the outbreak of the rebellion, took me up to the top floor and showed me the damage a shell had done—the only shell that has hit the hotel during the siege. It made a hole some six feet in circumference in the roof, crashed down through a guest room, through the floor of that room, through the room below and through the outer wall into the street, and, miraculously, without exploding, the percussion cap having been knocked off. So the top floors are shut off and we assume, for the sake of sound sleep, that the floors below are protected by adjoining buildings which are in the line of fire.

EL ESCORIAL.

The monastery which Philip II built in 1563 to memorialize a victory at the battle of St. Quentin is a great gray fortress. In the courtyard before the principal entrance a military review is in progress, of various companies from the division that has its headquarters in the town which grew up around the monastery. They pass at a rather slow marching pace, banners flying and in the distance the sound of stirring martial music. These troops have very little professional flourish, very little swank. Grimly they pass by.

At the end are "sport brigades," a company of young men in cheap, ill-fitting shorts and athletic shirts and a company of girls with wooden wands over their shoulders. One feels that the Spaniards take a pride in this athletic show.

For a symbol of a new life, a new world, which they would build in the ruins of the old. Spectators massed along the wall and in the windows and on the roofs of gray stone houses overlooking the courtyard. Wives and children have been watching and when it is over there are little family reunions, fathers holding their babies, awkwardly because of the rifle and the other military accoutrements that burden them.

Afterward we go into a great gloomy hall in El Escorial (which is also the name of the town) to see an exhibit of trench newspapers, the periodico murales that flourish all along the front. High up on the dim walls are dark-toned religious paintings. Pinned on bulletins in boards in a square about the room are the newspapers, some of them done in mimeograph, some of them hand-written, most of them illustrated with crude, bright cartoons. One of these cartoons bears the caption: "The parasite of the rear-guard," showing slothful idlers who are contributing nothing to the war. Another newspaper has an editorial headed, "Take care of your clothing because it is given to you by the state and state is you."

In the street before the hotel and in the hotel itself are masses of men in uniform. There is to be a banquet in honor of one of the officers of the division and we are told it is doubtful that there will be room for us at lunch. They keep on filling in. There are men with band instruments. Today is Sunday and the impression is that the entire division has had leave for the banquet or merely to stroll in the sunny street.

No, there is no place for lunch but our excellent guide, Aurora Riano, saves us once again. We have been given permission to lunch at staff headquarters, which is in a private house a little way out of the town.

Partly this makes up for not being able to go to the Jarama front.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will never fight for progress and reform, always tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news, never be basically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Another Victory for Mr. Cochran.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
PRESS dispatch from Washington informs us that the Federal Power Commission has denied the application of Ralph W. Street, Kansas City promoter, for a license to construct and operate a hydro-electric plant on the Gasconade River in Phelps and Pulaski counties.

It will, no doubt, be of interest to the people of Missouri to learn that Representative John J. Cochran was in a large measure responsible for the commission's action in rejecting Street's application.

Mr. Cochran appeared before the commission and exposed and denounced as unsound the proposed financial structure for the funding of the project and characterized it as a promotional scheme to sell securities to the public which would eventually prove worthless. He also vigorously opposed the granting of the license on the ground that it was an attempt to grab and exploit the public domain for private gain and profit.

Thus has this Congressman added one more notable achievement for the benefit of the people to the innumerable others already to his credit.

It is rather strange that Mr. Cochran was the only member of the Missouri congressional delegation to offer opposition to the scheme.

Mr. Cochran deserves the gratitude of the people of Missouri for his leading part in frustrating this latest raid on their natural resources.

What Missouri and the nation need is more Representatives of the type and character of Jack Cochran.

Long may he live!

Query.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
It appears that "How to Win Friends and Influence People" is not required reading for the disciples of Adolf in America, nain?

J. D. H.

Mr. Swaffer Annoys Him.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I HAVE just finished reading about the so-called distinguished visitor from England, Hannen Swaffer, who says St. Louis is dirty and the streets need repairing and the buildings look silly and the people are a bunch of hicks.

I am not a visitor from a foreign shore and I am not a hick, but where this man makes a mistake is in shooting off his mouth about American cities.

I, for one, think he is almost as ignorant as George Bernard Shaw. He does not have good enough sense to keep his mouth shut. He thinks he can come to these cities uninvited and make all manner of remarks and get his ugly pants printed in the local newspapers.

But if he leaves the same impression with the other 99 per cent of the people as he does with me, he will keep his mouth shut, use his eyes and go over to the dirtiest city in the world, London, and make some American improvement.

CLARENCE E. PROSE.

Kansas City, Mo.

Energy and the Atom.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
IN the report on Lord Ernest Rutherford's death, it is stated that he once declared: "The energy produced by the breaking down of the atom is a very poor sort of thing. Anyone who expects a source of power from the transformation of atoms is talking moonshine."

As far as I know, Lord Rutherford said the exact opposite: "The human race may trace its development from the discovery of a method of utilising atomic energy." It is Albert Einstein and Robert A. Millikan who do not believe in the possibilities of releasing atomic energy by the breaking down of the atom.

M. LEON.

More McDevitts Needed.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE downtown streets in the retail district have been resurfaced. The result is a non-skid finish that improves the appearance of the whole area as well as installing a safety feature.

It is indeed that it was all done at night, with no disturbance of traffic. This is a fine piece of civic co-operation, and while the credit is due the Dickmann administration, it is particularly the work of Frank J. McDevitt, Director of Streets and Sewers.

St. Louis public service needs more McDevitts.

BUSINESS MAN.

In Bank Liquidation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
A RACKET which is costing depositors of closed State banks a great deal of money is carried on by some of the "liquitators," or "deputy finance commissioners" who have been drawing around $30 a month out of them for four, five and six years. In order to hold on to their jobs they resort to all sorts of ruses to delay final settlement of mortgages, etc.

I know one case where a final settlement of $30,000 on an original $32,500 mortgage was not accepted. I'm sure most people, like myself, would consider such settlements quite fortunate, under the circumstances, but, of course, if these settlements were made, these liquidators would lose their juicy snaps.

It's about time the public takes notice of the stalling, the waste and the antics of these State bank liquidators.

EDWARD G. WHITE.

ROLE OF PRIVATE RELIEF.

President Roosevelt did two important things in his radio address opening the annual Community Mobilization for Human Needs. He made clear his hopes for the future course of Federal relief expenditures. And he sounded the keynote for the impending Community Chest campaigns in more than 450 cities, including St. Louis. These were his most significant words:

The Federal Government, with the return of prosperity, must more and more narrow the circle of its relief activities and reduce the amount of Federal revenue to be expended in the amelioration of human want and distress in the various communities of our land.

I say this because we all agree that, unless Federal taxes are to be greatly increased, the expenditures have to be brought within the existing tax receipts. Although Federal Government relief activities have to be curtailed, there must needs be no abatement of state, local and individual relief work. Indeed, local and private activities must be increased.

The only solution of the relief problem consistent with the desired reduction in Federal spending is decentralization, with the states accepting greater responsibility and with greater support by the public for the local agencies. But whatever the policy at Washington and the state capitals, the need for adequate support of local organizations continues.

The current economic recession indicates that relief needs will diminish at a slower pace than had been hoped for. In St. Louis, a relief crisis has been created by the exhaustion of municipal funds and the failure of the State to give sufficient assistance, with the result that the plight of some 30,000 needy persons has become precarious. For these reasons, in addition to those cited by Mr. Roosevelt, the 55 local agencies that will participate in the local United Charities campaign, to be conducted from Nov. 1 to 20, have a strong case for soliciting generous support.

These agencies perform necessary functions that the public relief bureaus do not attempt. They care for orphans and neglected children, for the aged, the blind and the deaf. They provide medical, nursing and hospital service for the destitute. They rehabilitate the handicapped, help solve family problems, conduct summer camps for slum children. Their functions are co-ordinated with the efforts of public agencies to provide food, shelter and clothing for the needy. In all this is a democracy, where the politicians tell us on patriotic holidays that the purity of the ballot is the cornerstone of freedom!

review—are always granted if four Justices approve, and even if two or three Justices are strongly of the opinion that review should be allowed. This little-known fact was emphasized last March by Chief Justice Hughes in his famous letter to Senator Wheeler. In other words, the rejection of the petition of the Florida companies means simply that there were not even two or three Justices who felt that a review was in order. It follows from this that the removal of Justice Black from the case would not change the result in the slightest.

WHOLESALE FRAUD—RETAIL PROSECUTION.

Prosecuting Attorney James P. Finnegan has dropped the 20 remaining indictments against election clerks charged with responsibility for the ghost pad of more than 40,000 names in the June, 1936, registration. And, at the same time, Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller has decided not to take before the grand jury any further cases based on the wholesale frauds committed in the August, 1936, primary. Sixty-eight persons from 11 precincts have been indicted for those frauds and are awaiting trial. No attempt is to be made to prosecute election crooks in the more than 600 additional precincts.

Meanwhile, investigation of the frauds in the river-front bond issue election of September, 1935, has been held up indefinitely while the lawyers quibble and the courts decide whether or not the ballots are subject to grand jury examination. This question has engaged the attention of the courts since last winter, and there is no indication when it will be settled. Meantime, the ballots—the corpus delicti, as it were—are reposing in their boxes, and those who stuffed and miscounted them are going nonchalantly about their normal pursuits.

Literally hundreds of thousands of misdemeanors and felonies were committed in the September, 1935, election and the registration and primary of 1936. But the apathy of prosecutors and the odd processes of the law have prevented any decisive action. Only one man has been convicted of election frauds, and he is still at liberty while his case is on appeal. Not a single higher-up, not a single one of the big shots who engineered the various conspiracies to corrupt the ballot, is in the slightest danger.

All this in a democracy, where the politicians tell us on patriotic holidays that the purity of the ballot is the cornerstone of freedom!

THE SHE-MAN OF THE OZARKS.

A shocking story comes out of the bosky dens of our Ozark country. The villain's name is Cecil Clyde Crocker, and Enough, Mo., is his home town, and Belgrade is the scene of the dreadful affair.

Robbing a bank is, as we all know, a proceeding frowned upon by the common law, the Revised Statutes and the community conscience. The Constitution is against it. Not to mind words, a bank robber is an undesirable citizen. But this fellow from Enough is the kind of bank robber that was never seen before on land or sea. Niftily garbed in a pink dress and a tam-o'-shanter and looking like a shepherdess of the hills, the rosy-cheeked, buxom beauty simpered into the Belgrade bank, scooped up all the money in sight and vanished like a loping Diana.

In the history of penology, bank robbers have paid their debt to the State, repented, reformed and re-established themselves as acceptable members of society, but a female impersonator—for such there is no hope in the heavens above, or the earth below, or waters under the earth.

22 MORE HUMAN GUINEA PIGS DIE.

The tragic deaths of 22 persons, including six in the St. Louis area, after treatment with a newly developed drug, sulfanilamide, reminds one of last year's dinitrophenol deaths. It calls fresh attention to the need for more drastic laws to protect the public against dangerous preparations. The helplessness of the Government is indicated by the statement of W. G. Campbell, chief of the Food and Drug Administration, that the "present inadequate Federal law" requires officials "to proceed against this product on a technical and trivial charge of misbranding."

Sulfanilamide has produced favorable results in many forms of treatment, but its characteristics are not yet fully known. Dangerous symptoms have developed in many instances. The Journal of the American Medical Association has carried numerous articles in recent weeks advising physicians to be extremely cautious in its use. It should not be given with other drugs, the Journal says, until definite information is available as to its toxic effects.

In the present instance, the finger of suspicion points to the solvent, diethylene glycol, used to prepare the elixir, as the real killer. The series of deaths, the Journal now says, "should be a final warning to physicians relative to the prescribing and administering of semi-secret, unstandardized preparations."

Pharmaceutical houses, despite the uncertainties and dangers surrounding the drug, have sold it freely. Worst of all, it has even been offered to the general public at drug stores.

The result is that the public again plays the role of human guinea pig, and 22 guinea pigs have given their lives to the experiments. Why should not the Federal and state governments have power to keep such deadly preparations off the market until they can be safely used? An effective system of testing and licensing new preparations will prevent the recurrence of such tragedies. Will our lawmakers heed the present deadly object lesson?

CO-ORDINATING MILK CONTROL.

The St. Louis County Court has acted wisely in appointing a County Milk Commission, as recommended by Dr. Theodore Meyer, the County Health Commissioner. With Dr. Meyer himself one of the members of the commission, and Judge Lauer of the County Court and Lorenz Ordelheide, County Sanitary Engineer, as the other two members, there is every reason to believe that the milk protection work of the county will be co-ordinated with that in St. Louis under the new ordinance, with sympathy but without unnecessary duplication.

The need for legislative authority for centralized milk control in the county remains, however. When the Legislature reassembles, this should be one of its first enactments. Meanwhile, Madison and St. Clair counties should be making arrangements to protect their residents from unpasteurized milk. The new health district formed by East St. Louis and three adjoining townships doubtless will take up the problem as soon as it begins to function, but protection will have to be on a county-wide basis if it is going to meet the needs of the area as a whole.

NO CASE.

The Florida companies which lost their plea for a Supreme Court review of the S E C's attempt to subpoena their telegrams have announced that they will seek a rehearing "in the absence of Justice Black." Their reasoning is that Justice Black's participation, assuming that he took part, was unfair to them inasmuch as Mr. Black made use of telegrams subpoenaed by the Communications Commission when he was chairman of the Senate Lobby Committee, investigating the fight on the public utility holding company bill.

Any money spent developing this line of reasoning, as applied to the present set of facts, is money thrown away. Ceteriori petitions—petitions whereby cases are brought up from the lower courts for

Well—that was just the night before the morning after. In the light of the grisly dawn that has followed, it appears that not a single pothouse in Missouri has closed its doors, and that, in addition to the burden of their continued maintenance, the cost of old-age pensions is rapidly approaching $40,000,000 per annum.

The enabling act was signed by Gov. Guy

STILL IN THE WOODS.

Missouri's "Townsend Plan"

Politics and avarice have reduced old-age pensions in State to a gigantic racket, writer says; sponsors estimated cost at "slightly more than $2,000,000" a year, but it is costing $18,000,000 and is still growing; half of citizens over 70 are on the rolls as chiselers reduce checks of those who are really needy below subsistence point.

Ralph Coghlan, of the Editorial Staff of the Post-Dispatch, in the American Mercury.

IN 1930, according to United States census figures, there were 145,214 persons in Missouri aged 70-plus; today, it is estimated that the figure has grown to 158,429. Of these, 100,000, or two out of three, have filed applications for old-age pensions, and approximately 75,000 are receiving monthly checks.

On Aug. 27, 1935, in charge of its administration the Governor appointed Allen Thompson, a horse-trainer and livestock dealer from Boss Tom Pendergast's Kansas City. A bureau headed by Mr. Thompson was set up in the department of W. E. Jameson, president of the Board of Managers of the State Eleemosynary Institutions, who promptly gave out a statement disquieting to 98,594 people who thought they had voted to abolish poorhouses. A newspaper dispatch of July 12, 1935, read as follows:

"The belief that the old-age pension law will eventually mean the elimination of the county poorhouse is discounted by W. E. Jameson. In the first place, he said, the bill for this uplift measure, which will cost in the current biennium $34,000,000 for pensions and $2,125,000 for administrative expenses, or a total of $36,125,000. This sum is more than 75 per cent of Missouri's entire expenditures out of general revenue in the last biennium."

In other words, one of every two persons over 70 in Missouri, the tenth richest State in the Union, is represented as having voted for a measure entitling him to public support. The generally unenlightened Federal Government pays half the cost in the same biennium.

It is the fury of madness which devours the world. It is a mutual slaughter which maddens race destroying itself with its own hands. The time to stop war is before it begins. The time to fight is to prevent its coming.

War is a means which destroys its own end, even when that end is the best—especially when that end is the best. It is possible that war may serve base ends, since war is violence; it may serve bondage and tyranny and death, since war itself is bondage and tyranny and death. But war cannot serve virtue or peace or liberty, since it must, in the nature of things, destroy these things as the condition of its own existence.

For war is a means which determines the character of its ends. If the ends which are sought are evil, then war may prosper them. But if the ends which are sought are good, then straightway war will transform them into the likeness of itself.

We proved this in the World War, when we fought for liberty and placed mankind in chains; when we fought to make the world safe for democracy, and made it so unsafe that democracy has been struggling for its life ever since; when we fought to end war, and apparently ended peace.

The one most horrible prospect of the next war is the decimation of mankind amid such terrors of despair and death as the world has not yet compassed in its peripety.

YES," OF COURSE!
From the Detroit News.

A N important referendum has been proposed by the United States Department of Agriculture. The question was asked of the farmers who grow potatoes for market: "Are you in favor of establishing a potato acreage goal for each commercial potato farm in connection with the 1933 agricultural conservation program?" Returns indicate that more than 80 per cent voted Yes.

The exact meaning of this is obscured by the wording of the proposition. A careful reading of many pages of Government bulletins seems to reveal that what the Government actually asked was: "Would you like to have the Government give you from 4 to 6 cents a bushel for potatoes that you agree to plant the same number of acres in 1938?"

And most of the farmers answered they would like it. Why should a fellow refuse Santa Claus the use of his chimney?

Can Recovery Proceed?

ON the basis of past experience, there would be the best of reasons for thinking that the slump in the stock market foreshadows nothing much worse than the depression of 1923-24. We have almost forgotten that there was such a depression, although, as a matter of fact, it was very severe while it lasted. But it lasted only a few months. And that is why we have forgotten it. For a short depression, however severe, does not cause general and intense suffering.

The reasons for thinking that the depression that is now upon us is more like that of 1923-24 than like those of 1929, 1893 or 1873, are principally these: first, the world monetary situation should by all known rules of the game exert heavy pressure to drive the world price level much higher than it is today; a rising world price level (as distinguished, of course, from an explosive but localized inflation as in post-war Germany) has throughout history brought profits that caused business to expand. And second, the recovery in this country might not yet have run its cyclical course in view of the fact that the building industry, which is of crucial importance, is only in the early stages of recovery.

For these reasons and others of a similar kind, a man would not risk making too big a fool of himself if he said that, other things being equal, this depression might be quite severe, but that it would probably be reasonably short, and that it would be followed by a recovery to higher levels of prosperity than those which were attained last spring. But other things are not equal, and no body in his senses could, I think, feel he was entitled to so much optimism.

For there is a wholly unprecedented element in the situation and it makes prediction impossible. We have never before, that is to say, never since modern industrialism began, been in a business cycle when business throughout the civilized world was so completely dominated by governments. In the whole vast area from the River Rhine to the Pacific Ocean virtually all economic activity is from day to day subject to the orders of irresponsible, omnipresent and arbitrary ruling oligarchies. In France the question is whether the recovery, which was under way and ought not to be over, will be permitted to proceed. The question cannot be answered by little concessions about the technic of stock market regulation. It can be answered by the insistence of Congress reflecting an aroused and informed public opinion, that responsible government be ended and responsible government restored.

For responsible government alone can give to enterprise that security without which there will be no enterprise. Responsible government alone will bring to bear upon government the selected good sense of the community in place of the inspirations, divinations, improvisations and mystifications of one by means superhuman though well-intended and charming, gentleman.

CEREMONY AT CONCORDIA TO HONOR PROF. FRIEDRICH

Service in Chapel to Mark 25 Years in Ministry; Banquet to Follow.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of Prof. E. J. Friedrich of Concordia Seminary will be celebrated at a service in the seminary chapel at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The liturgical ceremony will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Ludwig Fuerbringer and the Rev. Dr. Richard Kretzschmar, while the sermon will be delivered by Prof. W. G. Polack. A banquet in the dining hall will follow.

Prof. Friedrich was born at Chattanooga, Tenn., in 1889, and educated at Concordia College, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Concordia Seminary, St. Louis. Before joining the seminary faculty in 1930 he was pastor of churches at St. Charles, Waynesboro, Va., and Cleveland.

The celebration also will serve as a welcome to a new member of the faculty, Prof. Frederick E. Mayer, and will take note of the ecclesiastical anniversaries of four professors, as follows: Martin Sommer, 45 years; John Fritz and Theodore Graebner, 40 years each; and John Theodore Mueller, 30 years.

Miss Juanita Roberts arrived this morning from Nashville, Tenn., to be the guest of Miss Elaine Bonnet Meyer, daughter of Mrs. Irma Teichmann Meyer, 7542 Bryon place, for a week. She will share honors to-night with a debutante of the season, Miss Katharine Cavall Bernays, daughter of Mrs. Eric Bernays, 10 North Kingshighway, at a cocktail party. The hostesses, Mrs. Meyer and Miss Elaine, have invited about 50 guests, including debutantes of this season and second year girls, to their home preceding the debut ball of Miss Dorothy Lee Culver. Miss Culver's party will be at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Raymond Culver Jr., 35 Brentmoor park.

Miss Roberts will attend debutante parties of the week-end and will be honor guest Tuesday evening at a dinner Miss Marjorie McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ross McCarthy, will give at her parents' home, 6481 Ellewood avenue. Several informal luncheons and buffet suppers are also being planned for her.

Miss Helen Elizabeth Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zach Mitchell, 6822 Pershing avenue, will wear her mother's wedding gown tonight for her marriage to Bruce Lamont Evans. The ceremony will be performed at 8 o'clock at Grace Methodist Episcopal Church by the Rev. George Wales King, who married the bride's parents. He is pastor of Marion Memorial Presbyterian Church.

The wedding dress is of cream colored satin made with a deep yoke of fagoting and wide shirring at the waistline, giving fullness to the skirt and elbow. Short sleeves are puffed at the elbow and held with bands of shirring. Narrow folds of the satin, gathered at intervals, are around the hem of the skirt, which is split on each side in front and looped up with a bow knot of the material to show a ruffled taffeta petticoat. A long train falls from the waist of the dress, and the bride will wear a long tulle veil and finger-tip length face veil, fastened to a comb of orange blossoms. She will carry an arm bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley, tied with ivory ribbon to match her dress.

The bride will be given in marriage by her father, and the bridal party will walk down the two aisles of the church, forming a line at the front, a bridesmaid alternating with a groomsman.

The wedding will be a candlelight service, with tall cathedral candles lighting the aisles, their standards garlanded with smilax. Woodward and palms will bank the chancel, with candelabra holding seven tapers each, separating ferns from palms. No flowers will be used in the church.

Miss Mary Evans, sister of the bridegroom, will be maid of honor, and bridesmaids will include Miss Caroline Barrere, Miss Elizabeth Black, Mrs. Thomas C. Campbell, Mrs. Leland Hosto and Miss Mary Elizabeth Mitchell of Oxford, Miss., and Miss Marjorie Dean Murray, both cousins of the bride. All will be gowned alike in light blue-green moire, made with full bodices and deep round necklines. Covered but-Debutantes will be guests of honor tonight at an 8 o'clock dinner to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Abram B. Lansing at their home, 5 Wydown terrace, to precede the debut ball of Miss Dorothy Lee Culver. Honor guests will be Miss Eunice Holderness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Holderness, 17 Wydown terrace; Miss Elizabeth Hoerr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland M. Hoerr, 18 Princeton place, and Miss Frances O'Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Neill, 4540 Lindell boulevard.

Debutantes and their escorts will be seated at two long tables in the dining room and living room, and parents of the honorees with the host and hostess will be seated at small tables in the sun room.

Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, with tall tapers of the two shades in silver candelabra, will form centerpieces at the tables.

Guests will include Miss Anne Wending, Miss Georgia Wright Simmons, Miss Jane Sandford Scudler, Miss Frances Reyburn, Miss Nancy Lee Morrell, Miss Frances McPhee, Miss Nancy Malotte Houser, Miss Eleanor Lee Carter, Miss Betty Berkley, Miss Mildred Bakewell and Miss Eleanore Egan; Jack Muckerman, Daniel Fayne, George Barnett, Edward Jr. and William Havestick, the Rev. Frederick Cates, Sears Lehmann Jr., Philip Bond Fouke Jr., Charles Fitzgerald, Ashley Gray Jr., Dan

Reid, Archibald Douglass Jr., Louis Hoerr II and William Drew.

LABATT PAYS MAN HE NAMED ERRONEOUSLY AS KIDNAPER

Canadian Brewer Settles With David Melner for $5500.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—A London (Ont.) dispatch to the Daily Star said yesterday John S. Labatt, brewer, kidnapped in 1934, had paid $5500 to David Melner, convicted of the kidnaping and released after serving one year of a 15-year penitentiary sentence.

The dispatch said payment was in settlement for damages for "malicious prosecution and for negligence in the identification of the plaintiff." Melner, who surrendered to Detroit police in September, 1934, a month after Labatt was held captive four days and released without payment of ransom, was convicted of the kidnaping at London. Labatt identified him as one of the kidnapers.

Michael McCordell stood trial in 1935 and testified Melner had no part in the plot. McCordell, John Bannon and Russel Knowles are serving prison terms for the kidnaping.

Bequests include $50,000 to Miss

Adelaide Howe, a niece, who also receives the home residence here and its furnishings; and $1500 to Miss Nelle Webb, society editor of the Atchison Globe. After special bequests and amounts named in an agreement of heirs are paid, the residue is to be divided among two sons and a daughter. The agreement provides that James P. Howe, a son, shall receive $25,000 and a watch; that Mrs. Mateel Howe Farnham, a daughter, who was left $1 in the will, shall receive $25,000, and that Eugene A. Howe, another son, shall receive the building that housed the Atchison Globe.

Widow of Gen. Charles Ewing Dies

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Charles Ewing, widow of a Union Army General, died yesterday at the age of 91. She was a belle of Washington in post-Civil War days.

BRITISH PREMIER ASSAILS TALK OF BOYCOTTING SPAIN

ought to stand by them and act with them."

Laborite Favors Pressure.

Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition, also argued for economic pressure against Japan.

He accused the Government of "leading this country to the brink of another war" and said he believed Japan had embarked upon her "adventure" only because of the attitude of this Government and other governments in always letting the aggressor get away with it.

Japan, he said, was carrying on because of Britain's weakness in not standing by the League of Nations.

Chamberlain, referring to the forthcoming nine-Power conference in Brussels in his reply to the opposition attacks, asserted:

"I suggest it is a mistake going to the conference talking about economic sanctions, economic pressure and force. We are there to make peace and the first thing we have to do is to see what concerted effort can be brought to bear in order to bring about a peaceful solution of that problem."

Saying that he understood Attlee to suggest an economic and financial boycott of Japan, the Prime Minister said:

"You must bear in mind that if you are going to do that there may be some counter action by Japan and . . . you must be assured beforehand of sufficient force to enable you to overwhelm the counter action."

League "Not Effective" Now.

He repeated his belief in the principles for which the League of Nations was founded, but declared it was not a league of all the powerful nations as visualized originally and was not effective in the present crisis.

Referring to nonintervention subcommittee developments, when Italy and Germany agreed to a plan for the withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain, the Prime Minister said:

". . . What happened yesterday seems to me full justification for the patience and persistence of Mr. (Anthony) Eden (British Foreign Secretary) during these long drawn out negotiations."

Repeating to Laborite accusations that the British Government's policy favored the Spanish insurgents, he said he resented the suggestion and added:

"Perhaps you will be surprised to hear that from this town of Gijon (which fell to the insurgents) we have removed no fewer than 30,000 refugees in British ships under the protection of the British navy."

Tales of Italy's Assurance.

He said he did not share the fear that Britain would find Italy occupying the Balearic Islands after the Spanish war, and, amid laughter of the Laborites, said he had Italy's assurance for this.

Token withdrawals of volunteers from Spain, he said, would be made in equal numbers from each side in the war.

The House ended the debate when it approved by a vote of 204 to 111 a Government motion for adjournment.

In the House of Lords, meanwhile, Lord Snell, leader of the Labor party there, urged Britain and the United States to bring economic pressure to bear on Japan. He charged Japan had "thrown away the sympathy of nations."

Lord Plymouth, Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, declared the Government welcomed the Brussels conference as the best hope of putting an end to the conflict by peaceful means.

Besides Prime Minister Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden also complimented Italy in the House of Commons for the concessions she had made yesterday in the campaign for ending intervention in Spain.

Eden, however, reaffirmed Britain's determination to permit no challenge to her "right of way" through the Mediterranean — her sea link with her colonies.

The Foreign Secretary made it clear that the British Government firmly intended to see that the Spanish conflict became a purely Spanish matter.

When British Are Concerned.

He stated unequivocally that Britain wants no sides taken in Spain, but "there will be no indifference on the part of the British Government where it is clear that vital British interests are concerned."

He declared that both Italy and Germany had "substantially modified their views" on the relations of evacuation of foreign auxiliaries to the granting of belligerents' rights to both sides. Italy had insisted formerly that France be recognized as a belligerent before the principle of "hands-off Spain" be established.

Eden told the House that the Italian plan for deciding the proportions of withdrawals of foreign volunteers from either army on the basis of figures submitted by a commission to be sent to Spain was "acceptable."

Eden said British rearmament had no "overt or latent strains of revenge, either in the Mediterranean or anywhere else," but he added:

"Our position in the Mediterranean is simply this—we mean to maintain the right of way of this main arterial road. We have never asked and we do not ask today that the right of way should be exclusive."

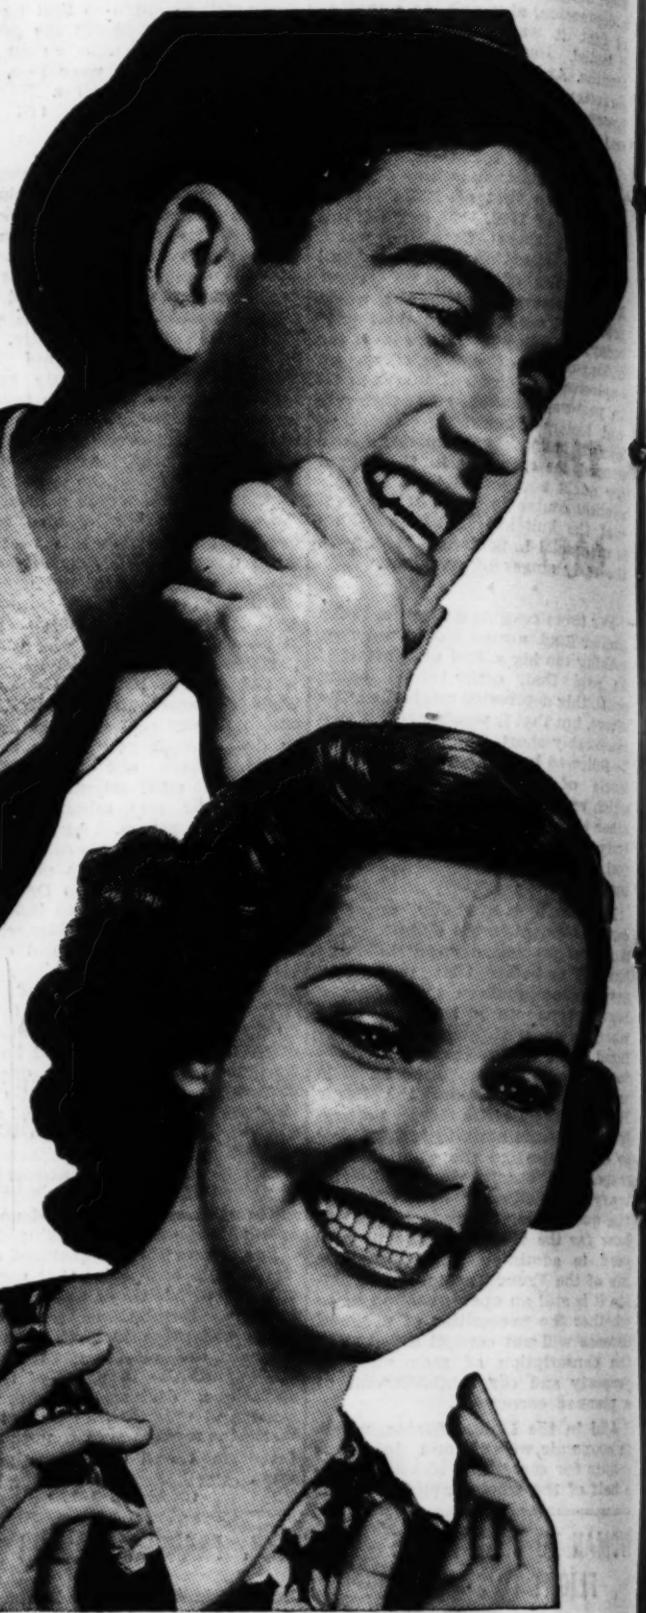

Then he promised "our whole-hearted co-operation" for friendship in the Mediterranean — on condition this problem of nonintervention in Spain is resolved."

Belgian Riders Outpoint Americans.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Riders of the Belgian army jumped their horses to a triumph over the American army team yesterday in the initial competition of the international American horse show. The Belgians scored 20 faults to 23 for the Americans in the first event of the three-day team jumping championship.

THE CAR

STOP the RUST and CORROSION
it can cause in your car. Use this Fast-Starting, Lubricating Gasoline

COLD SWEAT spares no man's car. All winter long, in the form of water, it harasses unprotected metal parts, rusting and corroding valves, pistons and upper-cylinders. Unless checked and checked constantly, this winter menace cuts down motor performance, cripples power, destroys mileage.

Check its ravages. Guard your motor with the gasoline that was created to fight rust and corrosion—Tydol, the lubricating gasoline. Every gallon of this fast-starting fuel contains a special top-cylinder oil that constantly lubricates and protects all upper motor parts. Tydol spreads a tough film of oil over valves, pistons and upper-cylinders. They shed water like a duck's back. In addition, every gallon of Tydol contains a special anti-rust, anti-corrosion cleaning agent.

But that's not all; Tydol is the fastest starting fuel that ever zipped a motor over at 20° below. And all its extra qualities are yours at no extra cost!

THE CAR THAT IS COMPLETE

CHEVROLET

THE SYMBOL OF SAVINGS

GENERAL MOTORS

Congratulates
CHEVROLET

ON ITS GREAT NEW LINE OF CARS FOR 1938

The new 1938 Chevrolets are the most beautiful and desirable Chevrolets ever built; and again, as for twenty-seven years, the Chevrolet trade-mark is The Symbol of Savings

General Motors takes special pride and pleasure in inviting the attention of the motor car buying public to the new series of Chevrolet motor cars for 1938.

Because we believe it will be apparent to everyone who sees these new cars that the builders of Chevrolet have surpassed all their previous accomplishments in producing motor cars that are excellent to own and economical to run.

For twenty-seven years, Chevrolet has specialized in lifting motoring standards up while keeping motoring costs down. For twenty-seven years, the Chevrolet trade-mark has been the symbol of savings. All of which is emphatically true again for 1938, because Chevrolet has made low cost mean more in terms of quality this year than ever before in its history.

You will find, when you examine the new 1938 Chevrolets, that they are bigger-looking, more substantial-looking, more massive-looking—with poise and distinction ordinarily associated only with luxury cars.

You will find that they are much more beautiful both in the Modern-Mode Styling of their new All-Silent, All-Steel Bodies and in the tasteful appointments of their new Art-Color Interiors.

You will find that they have that full range of quality features, including Perfected Hydraulic Brakes, Knee-Action* with Shockproof Steering, and Fisher No Draft Ventilation, which distinguishes Chevrolet as the modern car of low price.

And you will also find that the new Chevrolets fulfill all Chevrolet traditions of economy, which means that they are not only economical to buy, but also extremely economical to operate and maintain.

We of General Motors are proud to share sponsorship of motor cars so truly outstanding in beauty, in quality and in value.

We cordially invite you to inspect the new Chevrolets at your nearest Chevrolet dealer's showroom at your earliest convenience.

InstallationHow U.S. Agents Recovered
$674,209 of Stolen NotesNew York District Attorney Waited in Night Club; Got Anonymous Note and Found Paper in Subway Lock Box.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—United States Treasury notes totaling $640,000 and bearing interest coupons bringing their value to $674,209, which were part of $1,507,938 worth of negotiable notes stolen from a Bank of the Manhattan Co. messenger on Jan. 28, 1936, were recovered under mysterious circumstances early yesterday by Federal operatives and anonymous informants which took them first to a midtown night club and then to a lock box in an uptown subway station.

The finding of the stolen notes was the most dramatic of a series of coups which have resulted in the recovery of all but $250,000 worth of notes stolen in Wall street, presumably by the so-called "Green mob" within a period of two months in the latter part of 1934 and early part of 1935. The loot totaled $2,097,938, notes valued at $590,000 having been stolen from the United States Trust Co. on Dec. 7, 1934.

Arrests With Each Recovery.

With each recovery Federal agents have made arrests. Ten men have been sentenced to the Federal Penitentiary for their parts in the thefts and subsequent efforts to dispose of the notes.

The latest one, Meyer Frankenberg, reputed brains of the gang, was sentenced today to a year and a day by Judge Samuel Mandelbaum.

Assistant United States Attorney John J. Dowling told the court that Frankenberg "helped at great personal risk" in recovering the stolen notes from the subway station yesterday.

Dowling had been bidding his time since last Friday in anticipation of just such a development as the recovery of the stolen notes. On Friday, Frankenberg came into

United States District Court and said that he wanted to change his plea of not guilty to guilty.

He was allowed to plead guilty of transporting $40,000 worth of the notes to France in April, 1936, in an effort to sell them to a French banker, and of conspiracy to transport them. Dowling and agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation suspected that Frankenberg knew the whereabouts of about $300,000 in notes in addition to the $40,000 worth which were seized in France when an ally of Frankenberg mistook a French police official for a banker.

Given Week to Think It Over.

In the hope that if given a week to think it over before being sentenced Frankenberg might cause them to be led to the hidden cache, Dowling, at the time that Frankenberg changed his plea, asked that sentence be put off until today.

The authorities waited patiently for word from Frankenberg. Finally, late Wednesday, an anonymous source directed them to go to a midtown night club, sit down at a table and await developments. Mr. Dowling and three agents, following directions, went to the club, the name of which they refused to divulge, shortly after 2 a.m. yesterday. They sat down at a table, and presently a Postal Telegraph messenger appeared and asked for Dowling. He handed the United States Attorney a white envelope addressed to Dowling in large, black letters printed with pencil.

Opening the envelope, Dowling found a cryptic note in large block letters. "Uptown side I. R. T. station at Fifty-ninth street" it said. Inclosed was a thin key bearing the box number K-15.

Going at once to the locker indicated by the key, the four men found in it two business-size envelopes. From these they drew 13 Treasury notes, six of which had a face value of $100,000 each, plus interest.

MAN FOUND FATALLY WOUNDED
SHOT HIMSELF, SAY POLICE

James R. Goodin of Granite City Bought Cartridges Yesterday, They Report.

The body of a man who was found fatally shot last night in a clump of weeds on the edge of the sidewalk in the 1800 block of Adams street, Granite City, was identified today as that of James Randall Goodin, 34 years old, a painter, 2231A Grand avenue, Granite City.

Identification was made by his wife, Mrs. Lorraine Goodin, who expressed the opinion her husband had been murdered. The police were convinced that the bullet wound, behind the right ear, was self-inflicted, after they learned that Goodin had purchased six .32 caliber cartridges at a hardware store yesterday. Goodin was unconscious when found. A .32-caliber revolver, with one cartridge discharged, lay one inch from his right hand. Powder burns marked the wound. Goodin died an hour later at St. Elizabeth's Hospital without regaining consciousness.

There are no buildings on the block and no one was found who heard the shot. Mrs. Goodin said she last saw him when he left home at 5:30 p.m. to go to a barbershop.

SHOWBOAT OWNER REFILES SUIT IN UNITED STATES COURTInjunction Sought to Restrain City Officials From Halting Shows.

An injunction to restrain the City of St. Louis and Director of Public Safety George W. Chadsey from interfering with productions of the Golden Rod Showboat is sought in a petition filed yesterday by J. W. Menke before United States District Judge George H. Moore at Cape Girardeau.

Menke alleged that although he advertised performances to begin last night, city officials informed him they would not permit him to present the shows. His attorney Robert K. Ryland, said a temporary restraining order would be asked here Monday of Judge Moore.

A similar injunction suit in State court here was dismissed yesterday before the petition was filed in Federal Court. The later petition alleges, as a jurisdictional matter, that the showboat is worth more than $3000 and has a Federal license to ply on navigable rivers. It is moored on the Mississippi River at Olive street.

MAN INDICTED IN MURDER
AT EAST ST. LOUIS DIES

Thomas Pierce Accused With Mrs. Cecilia Zellman Succumb in Hospital From Pneumonia.

Thomas Pierce, 45-year-old W. P. A. laborer and former convict who was indicted with Mrs. Cecilia Zellman on a charge of murdering her husband, George Zellman, Rosicrucian healer, last February, died of pneumonia yesterday at St. Clair County Hospital, Belleville.

East St. Louis police found him wandering in a dazed condition at Fifth street and St. Louis avenue, Wednesday night.

The indictments against Pierce and Mrs. Zellman were removed from the court docket with leave to reinstate on Aug. 16 because Frank Slezak, an unemployed packing house worker, confessed the murder and was committed to the hospital for the criminally insane at the Menard penitentiary.

THIS MAN IS YOURS

A New ROB EDEN Story

Pretty Terry Trevor never had to face responsibility until she hit a poor mill worker with her speeding automobile. Then by order of the court, he became her problem with the obligation of caring for him and paying his bills until he recovered.

Terry's responsibility had interesting and romantic consequences. You'll want to follow her adventures after the judge said: "This Man Is Yours" in a new Rob Eden story.

Defendant Company Says Discharged Chef Spoiled Hamburgers. By the Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—John Boyd said he was fired because he joined the union, but the attorney for the White Tower Chain Restaurants said Boyd was dismissed as a chef because he spoiled the hamburgers.

The question went to the Pennsylvania Labor Board yesterday after a hearing of charges against the White Tower system filed by the Hotel and Restaurant Workers' Union, a CIO affiliate. Richard W. Slocum, attorney for the company, said that when Boyd didn't fry the onions with the hamburger he was discharged.

ARAB SHOT TO DEATH IN HOLY LAND CLASHES

Two Others Wounded; Four Jews Hurt in Ambush on Road to Jaffa.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 22.—An Arab terrorist was shot and killed today in the Jerusalem residential district—another incident in the stubborn terrorism British military authorities are trying to quell.

At Haifa, two Arabs were wounded, one gravely. All telephone communications between Haifa and Safad were cut last night.

New attacks were made at the Lydda Airport where severe punitive measures had been taken by the Government following the burning of sheds a few nights ago. The Iraq oil pipeline was again punctured by shots near Beisan.

Police were hunting the assailants of Avinoam Yellin, Cambridge-educated senior inspector of Jewish schools in the Department of Education, who was shot and wounded yesterday as he was entering his Mount Zion office beside the old city wall.

On the Jaffa-Jerusalem road near Motza, daylight ambushers attacked a Jewish bus with a fusillade of shots. Four Jews were injured by flying glass.

Commons Told Britain Intends to Proceed on Holy Land Plan.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Secretary of State for Colonial Affairs, William G. Ormsby-Gore, told the House of Commons yesterday that Britain intended to go ahead with the plan for a three-way partition of the Holy Land.

He disclosed the Government was sending Sir Charles Teggart, former high officer of the Indian Police, to Palestine to advise the Government on the strengthened police administration. Teggart put down terrorism in Bengal and survived several attacks on his life while police commissioner of Calcutta. His present mission was described as temporary.

Now Free for Inquiry.

The colonial secretary said effective action had been taken to deal with the violence growing out of Jewish and Arab animosities. The Government now felt free, he said, to undertake the investigation required before the division of the Holy Land into sovereign Arab and Jewish states and a British mandate.

Accordingly, he said, it was proposed to appoint a special body to investigate conditions in the Holy Land and submit a detailed scheme of partition along the general lines of the Royal Commission report.

Jews, meanwhile, were aroused to a fresh state of protest over a new draft ordinance restricting immigration of Jews and other foreigners to the Holy Land. The ordinance, carrying out one of the commissioner's proposals, empowered the high commissioner to grant a fixed number of immigration permits to March 31, 1938, instead of regulating immigration according to the country's capacity for economic absorption.

Calls Plan a Truce.

The Jewish press termed the new regulations "a truce of the letter and spirit of the mandate," while Jewish leaders emphasized their strong view that the country's economic capacity was the only basis for admission of Jews to the "Jewish National Home."

An Arab leader declared "our demands remain unchanged, namely, an Arab sovereign state and the Arab majority giving constitutional rights to minorities."

7000 WOMEN AMONG 28,000 ROOSEVELT POSTMASTERS

Miss Mary Stewart, Oxford, Md., Oldest in Point of Service Named in 1877.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—One out of every four postmasters appointed during the Roosevelt administration has been a woman. Postal authorities said today 7108 women were among 28,092 postmasters commissioned between March 4, 1933, and Oct. 1, this year.

Miss Mary W. Stewart at Oxford, Md., is oldest postmaster in the United States in point of service. Now nearly 80 years old, she has held the position since 1877.

Highest paid of the group is Mrs. Mary D. Briggs, appointed postmaster at Los Angeles, Cal., following the death of her husband about a year ago. She makes $10,000 a year. Only the New York and Chicago posts pay more.

OKLAHOMA LEGISLATOR HELD ON CHARGE OF MURDERING MAN

Says He Tried to Break Up Fight at Beer Garden and Then Shot in Self-Defense.

By the Associated Press.

FURCELL, Ok., Oct. 21.—Austin R. Deaton, State Legislator, who used his fists on a State employee in the last Legislature was accused of murder here last night after a man died of wounds inflicted at a country dance.

The charge against Deaton, a former part-time preacher, was filed after Ted Glasco, cafe operator, died in a hospital. Glasco was one of two men wounded in a row at a beer tavern near here. His father-in-law, June Tippitt, was the other man.

Deaton surrendered after the fight and turned over a pistol. He told authorities he attempted to break up a fight and then shot in self-defense.

'PRISONER OF ZENDA'
EXCELLENT IN REVIVAL

Romance Kept, Lightness Added in Picture Now at Loew's.

The new screen version of "The Prisoner of Zenda," first to appear in the talkie era, takes rank as one of the most entertaining films of the year. Starring Ronald Colman with Madeleine Carroll, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Raymond Massey and C. Aubrey Smith, it opened yesterday at Loew's.

Expensive production, with a regality of settings and ceremonies, gives beauty and distinction to the story of an Englishman's romance in a mythical kingdom of Eastern Europe but the spirit of the screen play by John L. Balderston, is such that it amuses the present day audience and yet keeps the noble melodrama that first delighted the stagegoers some 42 years ago.

Colman has the dual role of Rudolf Rassendyll, the Englishman, and his royal cousin, Rudolf II of Hentzau. Miss Carroll is the Princess Flavia who puts love of her country above her own affection, Fairbanks is the dashing and rascally Rupert of Hentzau. Massey the villain of the piece, Black Michael, and Smith the King's military aid, Col. Zapt. Other roles go to Mary Astor, David Niven, Spencer Tracy, Ian MacLaren and Margaretta Scott.

Tenants who plan to move are watching the Post-Dispatch Rental Columns to find homes suited to their needs.

JANE REGAN WITH LORRE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 22.—An outsider has won out over three experienced actresses for the leading feminine role in "Thank You, Mr. Moto," third of the Mr. Moto series, starring Peter Lorre.

The unexpectedly fortunate girl is Jane Regan, formerly of St. Louis, whose performance in an insignificant bit role caught the eyes of Sol M. Wurtzel, executive producer, while he was looking at footage of three actresses under consideration for the part. Miss Regan, whose real name is Hobby Stoffregen, entered pictures in Cecil B. De Mille's "Cleopatra" several years ago.

COLORS TAKE PLACE OF DILET
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 22.—Frances Farmer discovered during the filming of Paramount's color epic, "Ebb Tide," that actresses can grow fat or thin at will of the color screen. The star found that blue made her look five pounds thinner, dark red at least that much fatter.

The action proceeds through elaborate coronation scenes and grand fetes in which Rassendyll takes the place of the King, held prisoner by Black Michael, and ends in the celebrated rescue of Rudolf from the dungeon at Zenda.

The feature is accompanied by a color cartoon and a Pete Smith short subject on professional football.

RIGHT NAMES, WRONG NUMBERS ADD TO HOLLYWOOD CONFUSION

Persons Like Mrs. M. Boland and M. A. West Get Many Telephone Calls.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 22.—Having the same name as some picture star is one of life's minor tragedies in Hollywood.

Frank B. Lombard, for instance, receives as many six calls a week meant for Carole Lombard. It seems sort of ironical to him, because he works for the telephone company.

Mrs. M. Boland, apartment-house manager and wife of T. J. Boland, a film extra, is always getting calls for Mary Boland, and the Frances G. Dee in the phone book isn't Frances Dee of the movies, either.

Grace Allen, Mrs. Grace A. Allen, Mrs. Grace E. Allen and Grace M. Allen are continually having people ring and ask for Grace. M. A. West occasionally gets a call from someone who thinks his name in the book is just a slick phonetic variation of Mae West's name.

But Jack Cooper, a writer, feels most strongly of all about the situation. He not only gets calls meant for Gary, but people call him up and actually insist he's Jackie Cooper, the boy actor. That burns him up.

CHINESE EXTRAS IN DEMAND FOR FLOOD OF WAR FILMS

Those Employed Contribute to Fund for Relief of the Homeland.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 22.—There's a Chinese famine in Hollywood—a famine of Oriental actors.

Nearly every major studio either is making or is preparing to produce a picture touching on the war in China and Celestial actors are at a premium.

Paramount got off in front with "Daughter of Shanghai," featuring Anna May Wong in the leading role and has 200 Mongolian actors under temporary contract. The other studios, as a result, find themselves compelled to hold up their pictures until Paramount lets them go.

United Artists needs 400 for its "Adventures of Marco Polo." R-K-O wants 100 or more for "North of Shanghai" and Twentieth Century's "Shanghai Deadline" requires an equal number of the yellow men and women for that production.

The busy actors are contributing a liberal share of their picture earnings to a fund for their less fortunate brothers and sisters in the war zone.

MASS MEETING CALLED OVER BEATING OF MAN

Grand Jury Action to Be Demanded in M. A. McLoughlin in Flogging.

A mass meeting, to demand action by the grand jury which will begin next Wednesday, an investigation of the charge that city detectives flogged Matthew A. McLoughlin, secretary-treasurer of the cleaners' union, has been called for Tuesday night in Assembly Hall No. 1, Municipal Auditorium. The Rev. Dr. George M. Gibson, pastor of Webster Groves Congregational Church, is named as chairman in handbills now being distributed.

Dr. Gibson was author of a statement issued today by the Social Justice Commission of the Metropolitan Church Federation, condemning all violence in industrial relations. The commission, composed of 25 ministers and laymen, is headed by the Rev. Dr. Truman B. Douglass, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church.

The bills announcing the mass meeting were issued by Cleaning and Dye House Workers, Local No. 20. Referring to the Police Board's decision, exonerating Detectives Lyman Price and William Dunman, the bill says:

"Labor Demands That Grand Jury Investigate McLoughlin Beating."

The public cannot be satisfied with the Police Board verdict which has white-washed the Police Department of any responsibility. It is evident that the Police Board is not willing to face its own probable guilt and negligence—and practices of brutality and third degree. Labor and the public now insist that an impartial body—the grand jury—make a full investigation.

"A large attendance at this meeting will demonstrate our demand that the grand jury take action. A movie film of the McLoughlin beating will be shown. Give us your support!"

Statement by Commission.

The statement of the Church Federation's Commission, prepared by Dr. Gibson, discusses both "alleged violence done by the racketeer type of labor leader in the bombing of business property" and "alleged violence done by the police to the persons of those arrested." As to the latter, it says:

"While we are not in any sense party to the accusations recently made, we do insist that accusations of subversive import be given full and speediest investigation possible. Unreasonable delays and unwarranted secrecy surrounding hearings on such matters create suspicion that elementary civil liberties are in jeopardy, and that those engaged in the work of labor organization may not expect protection from harassment and violence that may be done them by individual officers of the law."

"We assume that 'third degree' methods are under the moral condemnation of the community. The exercise of physical force by officers of the law is looked upon by practical criminologists as a confession of lack of intellect sufficient to gather convincing evidence. Again, we do not accuse the local police of these antiquated methods; we do recognize a growing suspicion of their use, and insist that our commission take such steps as are called for. If charges cannot be established by witnesses in open hearing, such suspicion will be alleviated. If they can be established, any officers involved in the alleged illegal acts should be dealt with as any other offenders against the peace."

In the section condemning violence which damages property, the statement urges that labor leaders and organizations who stand for clean dealing be not condemned for unlawful acts of others.

"Isolated Acts of Betrayers."

"The imminent danger" it continues, "is that labor itself may be held guilty of the isolated acts of labor's betrayers, and that an hysterical demand for a cleanup may result in the innocent suffering with the guilty. This has happened in other cities with the rise of the vigilante method and sporadic, and thus the moral feeling against vandalism has become the servant of those who would break up any and all labor organization. This has not been true of St. Louis and our plea is for continued sanity and the application of the rule of reason, that each case be adjudged solely upon its merits.

"We are apprehensive of the possible results of the encouragement given in the editorial columns of one of our papers that the 'police deal summarily' with racketeers, and urge the patience of the public with the due process of the law."

McLoughlin, in his testimony before the Police Board Oct. 6, charged that the two city detectives beat him at Headquarters Aug. 26, scarring his back and shoulders and rupturing his left ear drum. McLoughlin was taken to Headquarters for questioning about a window-smashing at a non-union cleaning establishment. A man who had thrown a brick through the window was captured by Edward F. Pahl, proprietor, and Pahl said the man told him he was to get $20 from the cleaners' union for each window he broke. The man denied this when questioned by police. Pahl testified at the Police Board hearing that he beat McLoughlin shortly before the union official was arrested.

TORONTO UNIVERSITY HONORS CORDELL HULL

Receiving Honorary Degree, He Pleads for World Peace and Order.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Canada, Oct. 22.— Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from Toronto University today, and declared in an address that he believed that ultimately the outraged conscience of mankind would restore world peace. He decried "international lawlessness" but made no specific reference to the wars in China and Spain.

"There is a grim paradox," he said, "in the trends which are so clearly discernible today. As civilization moves to higher and higher levels, as the march of progress opens wider and wider horizons of material and cultural advancement, war becomes more relentlessly cruel, more thorough and effective in its unrestrained savagery."

"Yet in this very paradox, in this soul-shattering conflict, there are seeds of hope. No more than a community or nation, can the world of today base its existence in part on order and in part on chaos, in part on law and in part on lawlessness."

See Coming of New Order.

"And, just as, sooner or later, the outraged conscience of a community or nation sets into motion forces which re-establish order under law, so I firmly believe the outraged conscience of mankind will set in motion forces which will, in time, restore world peace."

The explorer, who is associated with the Explorers' Club-Soviet search for the missing aviators, said that an airplane equipped with skis would leave New York for the Arctic today or tomorrow. The chief problem of Levanevsky, Stefansson asserted, was to land on ice weakened by heavy summer rains.

"There is a 50-50 chance of their being alive," he said. "They are safe and sound after landing, and have excellent chances of living in safety for six months. The search will not be given up before the middle of next summer."

"Fog in the Arctic region is extremely rare. There is no fog in January, February and March. Only in July and August, when there may be 15 to 23 days of fog, is the condition dangerous. The winter flight in search of the missing flyers will present a wonderful opportunity for the Arctic region by moonlight."

ANOTHER ENCEPHALITIS DEATH

This Increases Total Here Since June 90 to 101.

One death from encephalitis (sleeping sickness) was reported to the Health Department today, bringing the total since June 30, to 101. This report was of the death at Lutheran Hospital last Monday of Fred W. Kay, 73 years old, of Maplewood.

Two additional cases of the disease were reported today, bringing the number in the last four months to 417.

Thomas Reynolds Williams Dies.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 22.—Thomas Reynolds Williams, secretary of the Pittsburgh Newspaper Publishers' Association and former president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, died last night of pneumonia. He was 60 years old and had been associated with newspapers since 1902. He had held the secretaryship of the Pittsburgh Publishers' Association since 1932. Williams had served in Pittsburgh as a reporter, city editor, managing editor and business manager of the Pittsburgh Press. Assistant publisher of the Gazette-Times and the Chronicle-Telegraph and business manager of the Sun-Telegraph.

Williams, in his testimony before the Police Board Oct. 6, charged that the two city detectives beat him at Headquarters Aug. 26, scarring his back and shoulders and rupturing his left ear drum. McLoughlin was taken to Headquarters for questioning about a window-smashing at a non-union cleaning establishment. A man who had thrown a brick through the window was captured by Edward F. Repeal Plea for Order.

Hull repeated previous pleas for respect for international agreements as an indispensable condition of the achievement of international order, and warned that no nation can escape the repercussions of the possible results of the encouragement given in the editorial columns of one of our papers that the "police deal summarily" with racketeers, and urge the patience of the public with the due process of the law."

CLARK WILL ADDRESS YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Cubs' National Committee Dinner Tonight—Plan to Prevent Criticism of Roosevelt.

The National Committee of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, under virtually complete New Deal control, was prepared to stop any resolutions which might be offered at its session at Hotel Jefferson today which could be construed as at all critical of President Roosevelt.

Though reports had reached the national headquarters in Washington that some unidentified member of the committee would offer a resolution critical of the President's neutrality attitude, the officers in a conference last night were agreed that the resolution probably would not be introduced. If it should be, they were confident they had sufficient votes and proxies to squelch it.

Following an Executive Committee meeting at noon, the program called for an open meeting which would be largely devoted to political stances by St. Louis and Missouri Democrats. Senator Bennett Champ Clark will be the principal speaker at a dinner to be given to the committee tonight.

Tentative plans will be made at the session today for two huge Democratic meetings, which probably will be addressed by President Roosevelt and Postmaster-General Farley, next spring or summer. One, it is expected, will be held in St. Louis and the other in Seattle, Wash.

The principal business matters before the committee are the perfection of plans for a membership drive in an effort to increase the membership of the clubs from 45,000,000 to 10,000,000.

Roosevelt Anniversary dinner throughout the country Nov. 9, in observance of the fifth year of the Roosevelt presidency.

On the Spanish situation, the King said he was "proud" at the successful outcome of the Nyon Conference for action against Mediterranean "piracy." However, he did not go into the newest non-intervention developments.

Otherwise, his message dealt with their majesties' gratitude for proofs of the people's loyalty and affection.

Search for Soviet Flyers.

Stefansson spoke briefly of the two successful flights of Russian aviators over the North Pole and the third flight, led by Sigmund Levanevsky, which apparently ended in disaster. The last flight, Stefansson said, was undertaken in the summer, when the Arctic is the most dangerous. The flyers have been missing since Aug. 13.

The explorer, who is associated with the Explorers' Club-Soviet search for the missing aviators, said that an airplane equipped with skis would leave New York for the Arctic today or tomorrow. The chief problem of Levanevsky, Stefansson asserted, was to land on ice weakened by heavy summer rains.

The King said the "heavy burden of this necessary rearmament" is somewhat lightened by increasing economic prosperity.

Few members of Parliament heard the message read.

Many Notables Pay Their Respects to International Banker and Philanthropist.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Funeral services for Felix M. Warburg, international banker and philanthropist, who died of a heart attack Wednesday, were held today at Temple Emanu-El.

The rites were simple in accordance with the wishes of Warburg's family. The Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, temple rabbi, read scriptural passages, and a violin quartet played Brahms' "Romance," from a collection assembled by Warburg.

Among those attending were Gov. Herbert L. Lehman, Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, Special Rackets Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey, John D. Rockefeller, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Bernard Gimbel, Mrs. Vincent Astor, Nathan Straus, Marshall Field III, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Jules S. Bache, Dr. Cyrus Adler, Mrs. Otto S. Loeb, Charles S. Hirschman and Mr. and Mrs. John Schiff.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals decided yesterday that an $8,000,000 surplus built up by the National Grocery Co. of Jersey City, N. J., should be turned over to the government.

The surplus, reported by the company in 1930, was more than its needs required.

The principal business matters before the committee are the perfection of plans for a membership drive in an effort to increase the membership of the clubs from 45,000,000 to 10,000,000.

Roosevelt Anniversary dinner throughout the country Nov. 9, in observance of the fifth year of the Roosevelt presidency.

The King said the "heavy burden of this necessary rearmament" is somewhat lightened by increasing economic prosperity.

Prosecuted James Gang

JESSE JAMES GANG PROSECUTOR DIES

William H. Wallace, Former Circuit Judge at Kansas City, Succumbs at 89.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 22.—

William H. Wallace, former circuit judge and prosecutor of the Jesse James gang in the 1880's, died yesterday afternoon at his home here.

He was 89 years old.

Since his retirement from law 20 years ago, he had been known publicly only to members of his church, the Central Presbyterian, and to prohibition societies.

He became prosecutor of Jackson County in 1880. The James gang had terrorized the Middle West, and the opponents of Wallace for the prosecutor's post never mentioned its members, not even as a Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., Mr. Wallace studied law under John A. Hockaday, then he taught school and supported himself writing for newspapers for several years.

Enforced Sunday Law.
Mr. Wallace in his campaign mentioned the gang, named its members, and promised to bring them to justice. His life was threatened, but less than 12 months after he had taken office, William Ryan, one of the leading James' lieutenants, was tried and convicted, and sentenced to 25 years in the Missouri Penitentiary.

The attorney was special prosecutor at Gallatin, Mo., two years later when Frank James was acquitted of first degree murder in connection with the robbery of Frank McMillan while the gang was robbing a train at Gallatin.

Identified Body of Jesse.
But the James gang was shattered. Jesse James was shot to death by one of his men in St. Joseph. Mr. Wallace went to St. Joseph to identify the body; it was that of Jesse James, he said.

The former prosecutor was born in 1848 on a farm in Clark County, Kentucky, the great-grandson of a captain who served under Washington in the Revolutionary War. His father was a Presbyterian minister, who moved his family to Lees Summit, Mo., in 1857. Graduating at

ST. LOUIS NAZI SAYS
THERE'LL BE NO PARADE

Albert Mueller, Bund Chairman, Gives November Weather as Reason.

No street parade is planned, and therefore no parade permit will be sought, for the regional convention of the pro-Nazi Amerikanerdeutscher Volksbund in St. Louis Nov. 20-21, Albert Mueller, local chairman of the bund, said today.

Mueller said in a letter to the Post-Dispatch that it was at no time intended to hold a parade, because of the unfavorable weather to be expected in late November.

He said the protests made against such a parade, and the requests on the Mayor for refusal of a permit, were "in vain, and a complete waste of time and valuable newspaper space."

Copies of Mueller's letter were sent to the other daily newspapers, to the Mayor and City Councilor, to the Rev. Dr. Truman B. Douglas and Bishop William Scarlett, who were active in forming the St. Louis Council of American Democracy, to promote an anti-Nazi demonstration; and to veterans' organizations, which have urged refusal of a parade permit.

"Too Cold for Parade."

"It was indeed amusing," Mueller said in his letter, "to learn from the newspapers about the parade, which you had planned for us as the principal event of our convention. November, as you for once will agree with us, is a cold month, and we would not think any more about parading in shirtsleeves in this kind of weather than you would."

Most of Mueller's letter was a defense of the bund, which the writer declared to be "absolutely committed to the cause of our country and our country only, and this country is the United States." The Bund, he said, is pledged to uphold the Constitution.

"Beyond that," the letter continued, "the bund attempts to strengthen the ties of friendship between our country and Germany. It combats all lies and misstatements appearing from time to time in the press, and objects to the unconstitutional boycott by the Jewish-led Boycott League not only against German-made goods, but against German-Americans who dare to be of a different opinion.

Cites Investigation.

"This organization is purely American and has no political connections whatsoever with our home country. Our organization has been investigated by the Dickstein (congressional) committee, at an expense of $25,000 or more of the taxpayers' money. The only result was the reaffirmation of its legitimacy. Our national chairman, Fritz Kuhn, has time and again insisted on an impartial investigation, in order to stop once and for all the insidious propaganda against our Bund."

"We do combat, with all lawful means at our command, the sinister influences of international Communism, which is right on our doorsteps today and is endeavoring to undermine and overthrow the institutions which are dear to every loyal American."

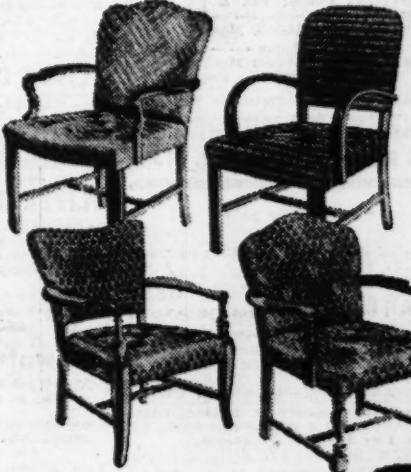

"As to our uniforms, we certainly can claim the same privilege which is extended to other organizations in this country, particularly as there is no identity with any uniforms of National Socialist Germany."

"The St. Louis Council for American Democracy, newly organized against our convention, has at least one member who does not believe in paying due respect to our national anthem at public gatherings by arising from his seat. Is Communism again trying to influence loyal Americans, under the camouflage of democracy?"

The latest request for refusal of a parade permit was sent to Mayor Dickmann by St. Louis Municipal Council, United Spanish War Veterans, headed by Harry S. Sharpe. Sharpe and other representatives of veteran groups attended the recent meeting called by Dr. Douglas at his study in Pilgrim Congregational Church, at which the Council for American Democracy was formed. The veterans, outvoting the original sponsors of the meeting, passed the resolution asking that a parade be prohibited. Dr. Douglas and other clergymen opposed this move, as tending toward repression, and urged non-interference with the convention plans, but a dignified counter-demonstration.

JURY DEADLOCKS
ON PENALTY FOR EMINENCE KILLING

It Reports to Judge It Is Unable to Decide on Degree of Murder Case of Everett Counts.

COURTROOM FLOOR
SAGS FROM CROWD

Judge Warns 38-Year-Old Building Is Severely Taxed but Only Two Persons Leave.

By a Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

EMINENCE, Mo., Oct. 22.—The jury of Ozark hill folk trying Everett Counts for the killing of his daughter's suitor, Miller Crane, whom he shot to death in the Eminent jail last June 26, reported to Circuit Judge Will H. D. Green shortly after noon today that it had agreed on Counts' guilt, but not on the penalty to be affixed.

Judge Green sent the jurors to lunch and told them to resume their deliberations later. He had called the jury into the courtroom to inquire what progress they had made after deliberating four hours yesterday, and up to noon today. When he asked how the jury was divided, one member responded, "nine to three."

Divided on Penalty.

"Are you divided as to guilt or innocence, or as to the penalty?" Judge Green asked. The same four replied: "The penalty."

The jurors asked last night for instructions on the maximum penalty for second degree murder. Judge Green sent word back that he could give no further instructions, without consent of counsel for both the State and defense.

Instructions previously given the jury that they might return a verdict of first or second degree murder mentioned that the minimum penalty for second degree murder was 10 years. The maximum, not mentioned in the instructions, is commonly understood to be life, but to be a term of years far in excess of the normal life span.

If the jury, agreed as to Counts' guilt, should be unable to agree as to penalty, it would be fixed by Judge Green.

The State asked that the death penalty be assessed against Counts, who is charged with killing Crane, a 25-year-old well-digger, because of the latter's attentions to Counts' 18-year-old daughter, Nadine Crane, who attempted to elope with Nadine two days before the shooting, had been arrested and held in jail on complaint of the girl's father.

Plaids Temporary Insanity.

Counts, a 36-year-old trucker of Eminent, took the stand in his own defense for the second time yesterday and told of his visit to the jail on the day of the shooting. In support of the defense contention that he was "temporarily insane" when the shooting occurred, the defendant testified he went to the jail to see Crane to give up seeing his daughter. He testified that they argued and then suddenly his memory failed him and he did not know what had happened until 15 minutes later.

During the dinner recess, after the case had gone to the jury, townspeople and hill folks from the surrounding Ozark farms gathered in groups about the courthouse lawn or across the street in front of the mercantile stores. Speculation as to the verdict varied considerably, principally because their sympathy with Counts is about equally divided.

Another capacity crowd filled the second floor courtroom as yesterday's hearings began. During final arguments Judge Green stopped the proceedings to tell the spectators that Sheriff Freeman Powell wanted him to announce that the large crowd was quite a burden for the 25-year-old brick courthouse.

Courtroom Floor Sags.

"The doors on the first floor fit tightly when they are closed," Judge Green said, indicating the weight the spectators was causing the floor of the courtroom to sag. "There is no danger but the Sheriff wanted to say something about it in case anything should happen. I am glad you are all here, but anyone who would like to leave may do so now."

A young mother with a baby in her arms was the only person to leave.

State Senator L. N. Scarpy of Eminence and State Representative John W. Moberly of Houston, two of their closing arguments to the jury with glowing praises of the defendant's "faithfulness to his obligations and responsibilities as a parent."

Both spoke of Counts' love for his daughter, how the thought she must had been forced into marrying Crane against her will preyed on his mind, and how he suffered

Unless pre-game reports are all wrong, the air out at Walsh Memorial Stadium tomorrow afternoon will be filled with footballs when the Billikens of St. Louis University and the Cardinals of Catholic University of Washington, D. C., meet in the only local collegiate game of the week. The Cardinals are no mean aerial circus and the Billikens have a few fancy heaves in their repertoire as well.

"We've scouted Catholic U," Head Coach Muellerleile of the Billikens said, "and, believe me, they'll throw a pass any old distance and from any old place on the field. It doesn't matter to them apparently, whether they are in their own territory or not; their motto is 'when in doubt, pass.' Therefore, we have spent most of the week on pass defense. I don't mean that the Cardinals haven't any running plays. They have but they have four great passers in their backfield and, of course, favor an air-attack."

Muellerleile is about settled as to his lineup. He is still a mite doubtful as to his starting quarterback, but is likely to give Bob Shee another chance at the job, with Bill Cochran in reserve. Bernie Walker is out with an injury. When he returns, Bill Cochran probably will return to his halfback post.

Expect to Gain Victory.

St. Louis coaches are inclined to "throw that game out" when they talk about Catholic's 30-0 defeat at the hands of the University of Detroit. They point out that three of the Detroit touchdowns were the work of a single player, his brilliance alone making them possible. The Billikens do expect a victory over the Cardinals but they expect it to come only after the toughest of a tussle.

Catholic U. players to be most carefully watched are Rocoo Pirro, a sophomore fullback; Maurice (Irish) Carroll and Burke Vidovich, halfbacks, and Charley Mumford, the Cardinals' field director. These players, in the parlance of the game, "can do everything" and the St. Louis U. defense has been prepped especially in stopping these four backfield stars. Coach Muellerleile believes he has evolved a defense for the most of the Cardinals' plays.

So far as weight goes, the Cardinals will have a little the better of it with a line averaging about two pounds a man heavier and a backfield five pounds heavier a man. However, the team averages show Catholic having only a three-pound advantage.

Nunn Is Due to Play.

Johnny Nunn, out all season with an injury, is due to see some action. Nunn is one of the best of the Billikens passers and his accuracy may come in handy.

Yesterday, the Billikens went through dummy scrimmages against the Catholic U. players and showed themselves adept in solving them.

Co-captain Beno Best, plant tackle of the St. Louis U. team will be able to start, but he will be playing under a handicap of an arm injured in the South Dakota fracas.

Oates may get the call at guard as a starter in Volumnius' place. He has improved steadily in his play and has a good chance to take over the starting assignment.

According to an announcement from Milwaukee, the Billikens will play Marquette U. here, Nov. 5, 1938.

Carl Totch has developed into a great safety-man for the Billikens. According to Coach Muellerleile, Carl is a sure catch and, once he has the ball, knows what to do and where to go with it.

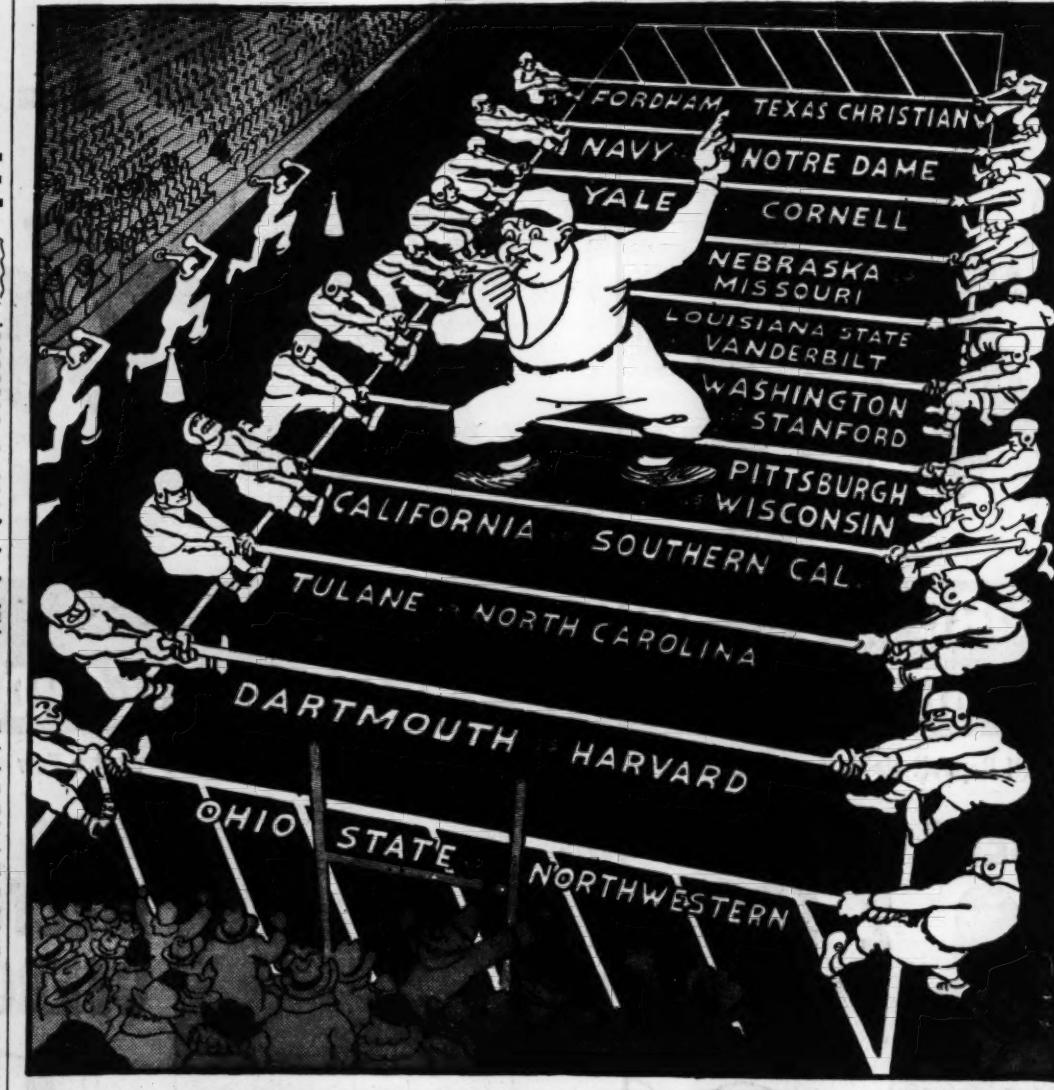

Pirro May Not Start.

EN ROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Oct. 22.—A sore and battered squad of only 24 Catholic University football players today roared toward St. Louis and a game with the Billikens tomorrow.

Only two of the Cardinals, and Louis Shire and tackle Carmon Pirro, were injured seriously enough to be left at home. But most of the other first stringers are bruised and weary, particularly in the backfield.

Rocco Pirro, brother of Carmon and Catholics' first-string fullback, probably will be forced to watch the greater part of the game from the sidelines. Pirro had a bad leg when he went into last week's game with Detroit and when he emerged starting the husky Indian lad.

CONZELMAN PICKS:

Arkansas Over Southern Methodist—Louisiana State to Beat Vanderbilt—Cornhuskers to Win From Tigers—Notre Dame to Sink the Navy.

By Jimmy Conzelman

Head Football Coach, Washington University.

EN ROUTE WEST POINT, Oct. 22.—It's another big week for football and another headache for the forecasters. When the results of the games come in tomorrow evening, we'll have a good idea of the national grid picture.

for State.

Missouri-Nebraska: Here's the game the Tigers have been waiting for, but I'm picking the Cornhuskers.

Northwestern-Ohio State: Tch! Tch! Tch!

Notre Dame-Navy: It can't keep up much longer, N. D. N.

Tulsa-Oklahoma Aggies: Tulsa.

Boston College-Detroit: What a game! Detroit.

Brown-Columbia: Columbia under wraps.

Bucknell-Villanova: V. N.

Carnegie-Temple: Toss up, Temple.

Dartmouth-Harvard: Green team beats a red one.

Fordham-Texas Christian: Fordham by a whisper.

Kentucky-Manhattan: Slight nod to Manhattan.

Penn-Georgetown: Penn.

Pitt-Wisconsin: Badgers lose first game of season.

Princeton-Rutgers: Tigers in stride.

Yale-Cornell: Here's a game! Yale.

FAB WEST.

California-Southern California: Bears over Trojans.

U. C. L. A.-Washington State: Uclans.

NORTHWESTERN AND OHIO TOP
BIG TEN CARD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The Western conference championship hopes of both elevens will hang in the balance tomorrow when Northwestern meets Ohio State at Columbus.

Defeat for Northwestern would deal a crushing blow to the Wildcat chances of retaining the title won with six straight victories in 1936. Victory for the favored Buckeyes would establish the Penn State team as a standout favorite to win in the first period when it was able to score a field goal.

Rockne himself would need all his football genius and leadership qualities to remain at the top in the face of competition as it is today.

And really, it's true. There are real names with the flavor of the old sod in the list of players chosen to face the Navy at the start of tomorrow's game.

The Hilltoppers use speed as their chief weapon, with plenty of passes and trick plays.

Belleville at Alton.

Belleville will stake its undefeated record against a strong Alton squad that has lost but one game, to Cleveland, 6-0. Belleville started slowly, defeating Ritenour, 8-0, and Collinsville, 14-0. Alton won from Madison, 14-0, making the teams appear even in strength. Alton also won from Edwardsville, 32-6, and Granite City, 16-0.

Belleville and Alton are the only teams undefeated in conference play so that a victory tonight is necessary to assure one of the teams an undisputed championship.

CARDINAL DIRECTORS

DISCUSS PROBLEM OF

INSTALLING LIGHTS

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the St. Louis Cardinals, held yesterday, there was a general discussion of the question of installing lights at Sportsman's Park. No further information as to declaration of a dividend was given out.

A Redbird, which, while flying south for the winter, happened to perch near the Cardinal office, chirped that the directors had voted to declare a dividend of more than five per cent and less than 10 per cent on the club stock.

Coach Schmidt put his Buckeyes through a "polishing off" workout yesterday as university officials estimated 70,000 spectators would be on hand for the battle. Northwestern's squad of 35 players arrived at Columbus this morning, ready for a light drill in the Buckeye stadium during the afternoon.

Michigan's Wolverines, 35 in number, worked out at Davenport, Ia., before moving on to Iowa City Saturday, and will be in action Saturday's Hawkeye game. Coach Harry Kipke said he would have to revamp the Wolverines' lineup because of injuries suffered in the Minnesota game. The game shaped up as a toss-up.

Some 45,000 fans probably will watch Notre Dame at South Bend in one of the day's big inter-sectional affairs. Notre Dame, off to a poor start this season, was rated the underdog by some observers, but there was a feeling that the Irish are ready to roll.

Outside Chance.

Michigan's undefeated Badgers will take on the strong Pittsburgh Panthers, and are conceded only an outside chance of upsetting Jock Sutherland, Marshall Goldberg and company. The Badgers were scheduled for a light drill at Pitt stadium late today. About 40,000 spectators are expected at the contest.

In the only other game involving Conference eleven, Indiana travels to take on Cincinnati University, Illinois, Minnesota, Chicago and Purdie will be idle.

Many Fishermen Unlicensed.

Government authorities estimate there are 10,000,000 amateur fishermen, although 2,000,000 of them are unlicensed.

EAST MOLINE TO PLAY NORMANDY
TEAM, TONIGHT

By Reno Hahn.

East Moline (Ill.) High School's undefeated football team plays at Normandy's field tonight in the local gridiron feature while on the East Side, the Belleville eleven goes to Alton for a night game that will decide leadership of the Southwestern Illinois Conference for the time being at least.

Crystal City goes to St. Charles and Wellston to Venice in games tonight. Other Southwestern Conference are: East St. Louis at Wood River, Madison at Edwardsville, and Granite City at Collinsville. Marquette High of Alton plays at Carlyle.

Visitors' Record.

East Moline and Normandy appear to have the same kind of team this season. Both started with a veteran backfield and an inexperienced line. The visiting Hilltoppers, coached by Ray Holmes, started their season by tying a weak St. Ambrose Academy eleven, 0-0, then defeating Monmouth, 18-10, Galesburg, 22-14, and Davenport, 7-3. Last week they won from Kewanee.

The victory over Davenport is significant, for fans here know how strong Davenport usually is because it played Maplewood's undefeated eleven here a few years ago to a 7-7. Davenport was favored to win, having easily won its first three games, but was unable to penetrate the Hilltoppers' defense except in the first period when it was able to score a field goal.

Rockne himself would need all his football genius and leadership qualities to remain at the top in the face of competition as it is today.

Sales for the Pitt and Northwestern games have almost reached the sellout stage. Within two weeks it is expected that the Southern California game will be the only one for which tickets will still be available.

Both Hunk Anderson and Elmer Layden brought to the job of putting the Notre Dame team in front as much football knowledge as Rockne possessed. They had as good or better material. They had the advantage of a perfected system, made to order for them. In one way their task seemed easier than Rockne's.

Anderson lacked inspiration. Thus far Layden has not done much better than his predecessor.

There are, however, factors that may explain all. First, there is the tremendous gain in strength made by rival university elevens since the day when Rockne started his upward drive.

Also there is the fact that the football world is now thoroughly acquainted with all the stops for the Rockne system, new to the world in the days when Knute attained his peak.

Rockne himself would need all his football genius and leadership qualities to remain at the top in the face of competition as it is today.

304 JUVENILES NOMINATED FOR 1938 ARLINGTON FUTURITY

TWO YEARLINGS WHICH BROUGHT TOP PRICE ARE NAMED FOR RACE

Jockeys Will Scatter to West Coast and Florida at Close of Eastern Campaign.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—High priced stars of the Saratoga yearlings sale stud the list of 304 nominations for the 1938 renewal of the rich Arlington Park Futility. Heading the list are the two top priced yearlings of the year—the son of Sir Galahad III—marching along for which Warren Wright paid $26,000 and another son of Sir Galahad—One Hour, which set Mrs. John D. Hertz back $25,000.

Tropical Park Stables will be open to receive horses, Nov. 1, General Manager Frank D. Schuyler notified Managing Director William V. Dwyer in New York today. Tropical starts the Florida season, throwing its gates open, Dec. 20, for the first of its two winter meetings.

Jockeys Will Scatter.

There will be a wide scattering of jockeys when the eastern season closes. Jockey Nick Wall, who has ridden in Florida the past few seasons, may forsake the Miami courses for California. Raymond Workman, Alfred Robertson, and Johnny Westrop are among those planning to ply their trade on the West Coast, while Jimmy Stout, Johnny Longden, Lester Balash, Frank Kopal, Irving Anderson, Johnny Gilbert, Charley Kurtsinger, Wayne Wright and L. Haas will make Miami their headquarters.

Ben Jones, who trains the thoroughbreds of the Woolford Farm of Kansas City, Mo., plans to race a big stable in Florida this winter. It will be his first appearance at the Miami tracks, having confined his operations in the past to the south and southwest.

100 TO 1 SHOT BEATEN IN STRETCH IN LAUREL RACE

By the Associated Press.
LAUREL, Md., Oct. 22.—W. J. Hirsch's Gloomer Girl brought her winning percentage to 500 in today's opening race by winning her fourth of eight starts this year. The juvenile daughter of By Pass II was up in time to hang a half-length defeat on Mrs. A. J. Abel's Byrd's Flight, a 100 to 1 shot. Jim Flaccius' Exhilaration was third in the limit field of 12.

Well played at an 8.50 mutuel, Bloomer Girl was rated along on the outside but within striking distance of the leaders to the stretch and then answered a drive to dispose of the tiring Byrd's Flight in the final jump.

WHEAT MARKET
EXPORTS LIGHT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22—Wheat prices turned lower for the first time in half a year in Chicago, where American wheat had much to throat quotations down 1½ cents. Light wheat, which had been the most active, was the best, and Cordoba provinces of Argentina.

At the close, wheat was 1 cent to 1½ cents lower than yesterday's finish, Dec. 97.90¢. May 97.70¢, corn .91¢ to 1.01¢ down, Dec. 99.50¢ to 99.40¢. May 60.40¢ to 60.30¢, and oats .94¢ to 94.50¢.

Prices of 1¾¢ for wheat at times reported early last year, were largely from reports that growth in Argentina was slow.

Our authoritative summary said forecasts pointed to a favorable rainfall in Parana, Argentina, and the Cordoba Province, materialized. It was added that if these rains materialized, the effects would be beneficial upon wheat and all parts of the crop.

Argentina's crop prospects were reported improved with some specialists predicting a good crop.

Trading likewise to pull Chicago wheat values were advised of large quantities of wheat were being offered from the United States. Estimate was current that the total amount of wheat sent to Argentina was 55,000,000 bushels.

Argentina's 19,000,000 bushels in Brazil, qualifying this, however, was to be sold in December.

Wheat was to be sold in December, was to be sold in December.

Meanwhile, little overland export business in North America, where the wheat crop was being maintained.

PUBLIC STOCK BUYING

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The Securities Commission said today that since the stock market began dropping about Labor day, the ordinary public—persons who buy or sell less than 100 shares at a time—has bought 2,800,000 more shares than it sold on the New York Exchange.

Monday, when the market was falling, the public bought three shares for every two it sold. Tuesday, when the market broke in the morning and soared in the afternoon, the little fellows sold slightly more than they bought.

Wednesday, when prices went up more steadily, the odd lot traders participated in the recovery by buying two shares to one sold.

Since June 7, when the figures first became available, the public has bought 22,392,465 shares and sold 18,244,051 shares.

Odd-Lot Buying Exceeds Sales.

NLRB FILES CHARGE AGAINST SHELL OIL

Firm Accused of Unfair Labor Practices at Wood River (Ill.) Refinery.

A complaint charging the Shell Petroleum Corporation with unfair labor practices at its Wood River (Ill.) refinery was filed by the National Labor Relations Board today, through its director, Miss Dorothy de Schweinitz, at the instance of the Wood River local, No. 525A, of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

The union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, has contended that a majority of the 2000 employees were members.

Officers and agents of the company, the board alleges, have coerced, interfered with and restrained employees of the refinery in the exercise of the latter's rights.

under the National Labor Relations Act. This was done, it is asserted, in the following ways:

Giving preference in promotions and in positions on the seniority list to employees eligible for the union who did not join it; denying to employees the right to be represented in collective bargaining by agents of their choice; persuading employees to give up membership in the union.

Further, the board charges, the company on May 14 discharged three members of the union's executive board and has refused to reinstate them, thereby discriminating against the union in violation of sections 1, 2 and 8 of the National Labor Relations Act.

These men, W. P. O'Dell, F. C. Werner and W. C. Eades, were leaders in the stay-in strike at the refinery last spring.

AWAITING VERDICT

EVERETT COUNTS

JURY DEADLOCKS ON PENALTY FOR

Temporary emotional insanity when Crane refused to stop his attentions and insisted he would have the girl at all costs. They also stressed testimony offered during the trial which supported their contention Counts was temporarily insane when Crane was shot to death, but at no time did they, nor did they permit witnesses, to refer to or even suggest that Counts had committed the murder, although that was virtually conceded by the nature of the defense.

Moberly told the jury there was was little dispute as to the facts, the differences being on their interpretation. He said Counts had been driven to a mental state which made it impossible for him to know what he was doing or to be able to distinguish between right and wrong.

Nolen Reviews Testimony.

Assistant State's Attorney Oliver W. Nolen reviewed the testimony at length and said it proved the defendant had willfully murdered Crane after planning the crime.

Counts, appearing as the last defense witness yesterday, told the jury how he had obtained permission from Deputy Sheriff George Seich to visit Crane in the jail, after telling the officer he wanted to find out if Crane would agree to leave town and stop seeing his daughter if he (Counts) would promise not to press charges against Crane for the attempted elopement.

Previous testimony had been that Seich turned over the keys to the jail to an odd jobman who unlocked the outer door of the jail so that Counts could speak to Crane just outside the cell. The two were then left alone.

"Well, I just walked in the jail and shook hands with Crane," the defendant testified. "I had never seen him before in my life. I told him I didn't want any hard feelings because I had a warm spot in my heart for him because he hadn't molested my girl."

Counts then said he told Crane he would not prosecute him if he would agree to stay away from his daughter. He said he told him the girl was "too young to try to make a home," and that he could not understand why a 25-year-old man "would want to pick on a 16-year-old girl."

Crane told me he loved her and intended to have her, but I told him I would never stand for it, that I could not stand to see her married so young. Crane kept saying he was going to have her or die, and finally said he would kill her, rather than lose her. He told me, 'If you get me, my bunch will get you.'

"That was too much for me," Counts told the jury. "I don't know what happened from then on."

15 SEAMEN CALLED TO TELL ABOUT STRIKE ON U. S. SHIP

Captain Has Accused Them of Misconduct and Disobedience.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—A Federal inquiry board called 15 seamen to testify today about labor troubles on the freighter Aligic, which returned from a South American voyage with two of its crew listed as dead and several as deserted.

At a preliminary hearing yesterday, Capt. Joseph Gainard, master of the Government-owned freighter, accused the 15 seamen and six others of misconduct and disobedience. The ship's log listed three sit-down strikes on the cruise.

When the most serious occurred at Montevideo, Uruguay, Capt. Gainard said, the Maritime Commission directed him to place the leaders in irons if they continued to strike. First Mate Weston T. Healy testified yesterday John Burgess, a deckhand, was shot and killed in a waterfront brawl at Jacksonville, Fla., and that another seaman was drowned at Victoria, Brazil, when trying to desert ship with others.

The National Maritime Union, a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate, entered the dispute last night with a statement attacking the investigation, the Maritime Commission, which controls the vessel, and Commission Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH DAILY MAGAZINE

ST. LOUIS, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1937.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

ONE of the main differences between a little man and a big man is that a little man's sooner go ahead and do somethin' wrong rather than admit that he don't know all about it, while a big man is not too proud to ask questions if he gets stuck. I remember when Aunt Boo married Uncle Unie, they went to Little Rock on their honeymoon. They went to the depot an hour before train time and when the train finally pulled in from the north, Uncle Unie went out for a while and came back and says "Well, that's our train for Little Rock." Aunt Boo was scared to death for a while for fear that she had married one of them men who was so sure of himself and she says "What makes you so sure that that train goes to Little Rock?" and Uncle Unie says "Well, I asked the engineer, fireman, conductor and the porter and they all said the train goes to Little Rock and I'm just kinda dependin' on them to know!"

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION
By Martha Carr"Imagination Is Source of
All Greatness"*"Every Brave Deed and Scientific Discovery Achieved Through It."*By Elsie Robinson

(Copyright, 1937.)

YOU'D be desperate if you lost your eyes by accident.You'd be appalled if the doctor told you that he'd have to remove your stomach, lung or hand.Yet you calmly allow an organ to decay which is immeasurably more vital to your success and happiness than eye or stomach, lung or hand.

Meaning what? Meaning your imagination.

Your imagination is easily most powerful and precious part of your whole self. It is the tool by which you free yourself from the bondage of brute ignorance—the door by which you may enter higher and wider planes of existence. Without his imagination a man is simply a weak, cowardly, stupid beast. But with imagination

he may become a god.

Look around you! Everything that you see is the result of imagination. Before anything can be built by the hands, it must first be born in the brain. Before a thing can be expressed in matter, it must exist in thought. And this applies to the spiritual and moral world as well as the material.Every brave and audacious deed, every beautiful creation, every scientific discovery, has been achieved by the use of imagination. We cannot even know romantic love without imagination. Yet there is part of our lives concerning which we're more indifferent or misinformed.Even the wisest people rarely think of their imaginations or consider the miracles which the imagination can accomplish. And the average person dismisses imagination as a childish folly or a rather shameful weakness. We actually distrust "imaginative" people—them in the same class as unreliable day-dreams of temperamental show-offs. Yet every genius, saint or hero is irrefutable proof of the power of imagination.Napoleon Bonaparte, the undersized, penniless epileptic, became a World Conqueror because his imagination was great enough to crash all barriers and lift him from a gutter to a throne.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

PLEASE help me to get an old suit. The Provident Association has nothing for me. I called up this morning. Many thanks.

• • •

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a faithful reader of your column and would like your advice as you seem so fair to everyone. I am the mother of four nice children. The oldest, a boy, is teaching school and the second is at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. The other children are in school here.My husband buys the groceries once a week and everything else for the house. If I run out of things I have to do without or borrow from the neighbors. The collectors for monthly bills and insurance just have to keep coming until they find me at home.He was immediately discharged, and he stayed discharged for over
a week, all of which time he spent—
or declared to us that he spent—on the boat, making inquiries and running down clews, but in vain,
for Topsy never was found.

• • •

ONE night he surreptitiously came back to our house with a basket. He was let in the basement door without our knowing it.
He left the basket and fled. Margaret, the cook, then came upstairs, with her lips tightly pursed on her face, and asked Father and Mother if they would please kindly step down to the kitchen. We all trooped down at once. There, on the floor, in Topsy's old basket, was a newborn lamb.He was immediately discharged,
and he stayed discharged for over
a week, all of which time he spent—
or declared to us that he spent—
on the boat, making inquiries and
running down clews, but in vain,
for Topsy never was found.

• • •

WHAT is this miserable thing?"
Father demanded.We boys poked at the strange object, curiously. It shut its eyes and said "Ba-ba."Margaret said Morgan had told her that he had got this lamb at the butcher's. He had apparently intended to be a peace offering.
It wasn't taken as such. If Morgan had been present, he would have been discharged all over again and for good, for daring to inconvenience Father with this attempt at atonement.The Day family didn't know what on earth to do with that lamb. They couldn't bring themselves to convince it at its murder and send it back to the butcher. Yet to bring up lamb on Madison avenue seemed quite a problem. We boys were all in favor of keeping it, hoping that it soon would grow up and become a great big ram with curved horns. We planned to chase it up and down stairs, and sic it at other boys, and hide it underneath the piano. At the moment however it was so weak and wobbly that it could hardly stand up. It just lay in its basket beside the kitchen range and plaintively bleated for milk.Margaret petted it and warmed it with the warmth of drink she had on her. In spite of their reflections, or whether they made too disreputable an appearance in poor Morgan's liver, none of them quite suited Father. They didn't look right, he said. The only one of them who seemed really eligible was a severe and respectable man who came up from the basement carrying Morgan's coat on his arm.
It would fit him, he said, but he would prefer not to wear it. He wanted a new one. He was sent packing instantly for having high and lofty ideas.

• • •

NOTHER objection to O'Dowd was that he had too many children. He had three when he came, and although he was warned to stop them kept coming until he had seven. There were more little O'Dowds on the Day place than there were little Day boys.O'Dowd was instructed to keep them close to the stable, and on no account let them be seen near the garden or lawn. This left them practically no place to play but the manure pit and paddock.
One or another of them was always venturing out to trespass on those forbidden acres when no one was watching, and scampering wildly back through the bushes when his crime was discovered.The eldest boy, Morris, was held to blame, by both O'Dowd and ourselves, for every bit of disgraceful behavior on the part of his little brothers. He was a thin, lanky boy, with sad eyes and a querulous voice. As O'Dowd had all he could do, grooming the horses, clearing the harness, and driving the responsibilities of fatherhood fell more and more upon Morris. "The melancholy Morris," as Mother sympathetically called him. When the district school opened in the fall, we would sometimes come upon a procession of small O'Dowds on the road, led by their pale eldest brother, walking to or from the dingy, wooden schoolhouse. By that time all youngness had gone out of Morris, and he walked with a round-shouldered stoop.The district school was not far from our place. It was rickety and old. One summer evening a citizens' meeting was held in it, to vote on building a new schoolhouse with modern improvements. Father heard of this at the last moment, just in time to walk to the school after dinner and enter a protest. He had paid enough taxes as it was; he told Mother
he didn't propose to pay any more.He found that the meeting was in full swing as he went in the door. A man with a loud bellow-ing voice was haranguing those present, urging them to vote for
this splendid and much-needed improvement. He had seven fine children to send to it himself, he declared, and if God was good to him
he might have seven more.The room was so thick with pipe and cigar smoke that it was hard to make faces out, and Father could scarcely believe at first that it was O'Dowd who was bellowing.
None of us had ever heard his voice raised above a respectful low
key. But it was he, no mistake.

a protest. He had paid enough
taxes as it was; he told Mother
he didn't propose to pay any more.He found that the meeting was in full swing as he went in the door. A man with a loud bellow-
ing voice was haranguing those present, urging them to vote for
this splendid and much-needed improvement. He had seven fine children to send to it himself, he declared, and if God was good to him
he might have seven more.The room was so thick with pipe
and cigar smoke that it was hard
to make faces out, and Father
could scarcely believe at first that
it was O'Dowd who was bellowing.
None of us had ever heard his
voice raised above a respectful low
key. But it was he, no mistake.

Dear Martha Carr:

HOW can I know when houses are sold at auction by court order?
Also, can these be bought on time or through the F. H. A.

Harvard has opened classes for 300 employers who will listen to lectures on how to keep on good terms with employees.

For those who cannot attend, the following suggestions may be helpful:

1. Provide overstuffed chairs for sitdown strikers.
2. Permit sunbaths during work hours.
3. Place bridge tables in elevators.
4. Organize inter-department polo teams.
5. Take out time clocks; replace with free gum machines.

And put a hamburger sandwich and a sweepstakes ticket in every pay envelope.

INVENTORY FOR THE LONG DISTANCE LOVE.

The first day I really wanted to write.

The second day, too, though I was not quite so enthusiastic. Writing to you the day after that was less fun than duty.

I am not much on this letter stuff. And today, a postcard must be enough!

"Darling, I love you, I wish you were here."

But, since you're not, I'll forget you I fear.

Bill Donaldson called us Monday, on the site of the courthouse yard. He said when we put the site of that plot at four acres we were crazy with the heat. He doesn't believe there are two acres in the enclosure. Our impression is that the courtyard is at least 400 feet square. Bill claims the courthouse ought to be counted out—it was when we were telling about mowing the lawn, that we mentioned four acres as the content.

SYNOPSIS

The hitherto well-ordered life of the Agnews has gone awry. Beautiful Irene, who has tried to rescue her sister, Irene, engaged to Waldo, from the fascinations of Charlie Jones, artist and painter, has run away. She has been to Keough, to spy on them. Then, hoping to cure Irene, Margit lures Charlie on, but when she tells her sister of Charlie's secret, Irene falls in love with him herself. In the meantime, Keough has received a cable (which Charlie had sent) to a gas station and Yard, informing him that the artist is a notorious criminal. Margit agrees to help capture him, but at the last minute mysteriously warns him to escape. Later, she will join him!

"Of course. That's what love is—Isn't it? I just realized."

"I wouldn't go—anywhere—an inch—without you, Margit."

"Don't you realize—you have only a few precious minutes? You've got to make a break! Hurry!"

"Not without you."

Her voice was desperate. "Please! I beg you! Charlie! I never begged one for anything before in my life."

"No."

She moved. He understood that she was putting the gun back in her handbag. She stood up. The Negro waiter was at the table—platters of cold lobster in his hands. "It'll be right back."

Casey's mouth was grim. "I guess we better get Mr. Jones and your butler up here and find out what's been done to your Mr. Jones that looked pretty straight to me."

Think fast! "You mean—cables—things like that?" she asked.

"Exactly."

"He stole a machine out of a telephone office, too. My secretary told me about it this morning. If I were you—I wouldn't bother Mr. Jones. He'd love to have a joke on the police department. You see—he owns a newspaper."

"Just found out that—all you men were here."

"Jones didn't escape—!"

"No—not!" She had to act—and act convincingly. "There's no such person. That is—Mr. Jones is perfectly all right. It's my butler. He just whispered to me that he had Margit Becomes Dramatic Over Charles' Supposed Danger, But It Ends With a Trailer Cavalcade.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE.

C H A R LIE stared at Margit. It was, perhaps, old stuff. Age-old. A proud woman humbled by her love. A woman facing what she thought was terrifying danger for the one she loved—not merely with courage—but with all the collected brilliancy and resourcefulness of her personality.

He did not for an instant think of the situation as ridiculous. Not then—although, in a sense, it was the most preposterous one which he had ever encountered. The prank he had played on Keough had almost vanished in his memory. True enough, he would not have been surprised if he had found that Keough still believed he was the scourge of Europe. It would not have amazed him, some days before, if he had learned that even Margit tentatively believed the contents of the devastating cable which he had caused to be sent to

"Don't haggle about it. Come on! Leave money for the check. Twenty dollars will cover it—and to spare." She herself put the money on the table. She pulled him from his seat. She rushed him toward her car. She drove down the avenue that led from the Swan Inn like a streak. "We've got a few hours start," she finally said. "You better drive from now on—you know how to handle these things better than I do."

They traded places.

Then he kissed her. "Margit—you're well—"

"Drive! I'm nothing! I'm the most incredible fool that ever was born! But—"

"But what?"

"—but—I'm happy."

He slowed. He shook his head when she urged him to speed. "Listen, darling. You've just had a tough time. What's coming is a lot tougher."

"I know. Hiding. Dodging the police. Cheap hotels. Moving from country to country. Never feeling safe. Worrying—night and day. Stealing—"

"No! Good lord—when a girl like you goes—she goes all the way—doesn't she? No. Look, Margit. I'm not a criminal. I'm rich. I was born in Baltimore. My name is Charlie Jones. I'm an artist. A good one. My family is very proper and social. I hate society. That's why none of your friends know me. I dropped out of sight as far as the smart set goes—years and years ago. I've amused myself barging all over the world. Ask Ella Bly. She's my mother's second cousin."

He was watching her. "I know this is a dreadful thing to be—what you've just done for me."

Funny, he thought. She was collapsing, shivering, dying within herself—all because he was rich and respectable and well-born and not a criminal. He went on in deadly earnest. "I fooled Keough for fun and because he was a saps, and because I resented your ordering him to follow me. I had a friend of mine in London cable that nonsense to him. Remember—phone—at the Prince James Hotel? Oh—what's the use! Call Ella. She's been thinking that my courtship or was the funniest thing she'd ever heard of in her life. As a matter of fact, I knew all about you and Irene from her before we met. I did pick up Irene because she was pretty. She had one of those empty, patrician faces. I wanted to draw it. When I heard her name—I was delighted. So I took her over to Spike's."

"Why don't you stop talking?" Margit asked bitterly. She sighed.

"I guess you'll have a laugh with Ella all the rest of your life. Me—talking about love—and Tasmania—and carrying a gun! Oh!!!"

He stopped the car. "I didn't think it was funny."

She looked at him scornfully.

"No!"

"I saw a girl who was so proud that she wouldn't budge for dear life, and so cool butter wouldn't melt in her mouth—sudden turn humble and brave and human for . . . his voice caught slightly—"for love" and I didn't think it was funny at all. I just thought—it was the most magnificent thing I'd ever seen in my life. I'm sorry I'm rich. I'm apologetic for my fame. I wish to heaven I were a jewel thief. Shall I drive home?"

She didn't answer. A moment before, she had felt so humiliated that she had been sure nothing could ever again make her think of

To that Irene replied, "You're so wonderful!"

Leading the procession moved along the shores of the Hudson River, headed for Albany, presumptively, and points west. It consisted of a dozen automobiles of various models and years, pulling a dozen identical trailers. People along the roadside stopped to marvel at it as it passed—not so much because of the mechanical equipment represented—as because of the expressions of delight and happiness on the faces of the persons who conducted and rode in this remarkable parade.

Paul was driving a limousine and beside him was Irene. Directly behind, with his trailer attached to an old Ford, was a grandiose Italian and his grandiose Italian wife, Spike. In Spike's trailer were no less than six of Spike's rapturous, combative, and . . . and . . .

Absent-Minded Person Often Is Fortunate

By the Rev. J. F. Newton

THE absent-minded professor, or man of genius, has become a stock joke, almost a stale one. We meet him in the comic papers; each of us has a tale about him. Here is mine.

The professor set off from his home one cold morning to go to his class-room. After walking for a while against the wind, he stopped to blow his nose for better ventilation.

In doing so he turned round to have his back to the wind. On replacing his handkerchief, he resumed his walk, having forgotten to face about, and found himself back at his own doorstep!

Absurd? No! doubt; but is so foolish to be absent-minded sometimes? Are there not occasions in life when it is good sense, if not genius, to be unaware of what is being said and done?

"Somehow, I never thought it paid," said Lincoln, when someone reported an unkind thing said about him, wondering why he did not resent it. He was divinely absent-minded to insults.

"Men see me at times," said Lazlo, the painter, "as a man whose mind has gone a-holidaying. That is true, what has happened. I and my soul are holding high converse together."

"It is a fine thing," he added, "to be absent in mind when men are speaking foolishly or with evil intent. Men call me a dreamer. But I see myself as a man who can live and breathe beneath the surface of these passing shadows of circumstance."

There was one wise man—dead to idle chatter to no purpose, absent-minded to dirty gossip which would belittle himself or besmirch his fellows; no wonder he had peace of mind!"

To withdraw into ourselves, as Lazlo did, when idle tongues wag, protects the mind from a lot of useless litter, which does us no good and makes us think ill of others.
